DWP II six years old today! Soon he will be a teenager. Very hectic past several days:

1/24 - we took Dad to Mid-Valley Hospital; he wasn't eating and was getting weak: too much worrying about the prostate removal that was scheduled for today. Mid-Valley Hospital is a "zoo" - the patients are victims in a money-making scheme. They are so eager for patients that a simple office procedure becomes a 10-day hospital stay with every possible test required and at least three "specialists" called in. Dad looks OK, but is still weak; we take Mom down every morning & retrieve her every evening.

1684 2.

On Sunday, Luzerne County Community College asked me
if I wanted to teach English 102
at Elk Lake ^{H.S.} (Monday, 6:15 PM - 9:15 PM) and at Sugarbush
H.S. (Thursday, 6:15 PM - 9:15 PM).
Naturally I said yes. $1155 per course. And so I am now teaching four college courses -

- 2 sections of Humanities I
at Penn State, Scranton
- 2 sections of English 102
at Luzerne County Community College

also working part time at Wal-Mart; also working as Financial Secretary at the Sewan Baptist Church.

I am always in a hurry to get from A to B; but I am managing to keep ahead of it all. There are many desk-related things that I have to attend to but I can't get at them at present. In a week or two when I settle into this hectic schedule of mine, I will feel less pressed by it all.

The wonderful — and essential — part of my schedule is this: my mornings are all open, which means that I can rest appropriately and that I can take proper care of my poetry and Tipplers.

Dear Mr. McDaniel,

Thanks for your inquiry about standard Modern Game.

I have B.B. Red only — and not very many of them. This year I am only raising young from a few pairs and will not have any available eggs or chicks for sale.

My birds are a fusion of two strains: that of O'Name UKCH
and that of a breeder in upstate New York who has his own strain. The vitality of my birds appears to be very good.

I notice that O'Name UKCH is offering for sale both eggs and chicks in standard B.B. Red Modern Game. Maybe you can get some chicks or eggs from him? His ad is in every issue of Poultry Press
(over)

1688

and it's my experience that the quality of his stock is very good. His address:

Best of luck.

Sincerely,

J. Robert Powell

GUEST BOOK

Visitors are invited to sign our guest register at the rear of the sanctuary.

Last week, Catherine Shoppy was at Allied Services; Walter Powell was at Mid-Valley Hospital.

"Dine-a-Mate" books are available for $20.00. Profits will go to the Mission Tree. See Joan Wilson or the pastor.

We extend our sincere sympathy to the family of Mr. Bert Clemens, who passed away on January 25; also to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parry and family, on the tragic death of their great grandson in Michigan.

Joan Wilson wishes to thank all who remembered her during her recent hospital stay.

The Rev. G. Fay Crossman is now a guest at the Birch Hills Home, in Simpson. He was an area pastor for many years and is the father of Mrs. Eleanor Lockyer. He would be glad to hear from Berean friends.

We will printing our Newsletter this week. Please give us any news items today.

Anyone wishing to be a Greeter for future Sunday services, please contact Grace or Joan Moon. Your help will be appreciated.

If you know of anyone who has need of a lap robe, contact any member of the Melchiah Circle: Eleanor Williams, Ethel Parry, Grace Moon, Mae Parry, Lillian Arnold, Lois Marr, Althea Neutts, Phyllis Arthur.

Eddie Seigle is now working at Wal-Mart. The store is collecting soda can tabs for dialysis patients at Moses Taylor. It would be appreciated if you would save them and give them to her.

Penalty Clause Section

Except as otherwise provided herein, in the event of any withdrawal of principal from this account prior to a maturity date, the Accountholder, regardless of the length of time the funds withdrawn have remained in the account, shall forfeit an amount equal to the greater of (1) 31 days (if the maturity of the account is 32* days to and including 89 days), or 90 days (if the maturity of the account is 90 days to and including one year), or 180 days (if the maturity of the account is greater than one year), of interest or dividends, whether earned or not, on the amount withdrawn at the nominal (simple interest) rate then being paid on the account just prior to withdrawal, or (2) the difference between what could be earned on the amount withdrawn from date of withdrawal to maturity at the nominal (simple interest) rate then being paid on this account just prior to said withdrawal and that which the Bank is offering on new term accounts of this class and term at time of withdrawal. Earnings credited to this account may be withdrawn without penalty at any time during the term in which they were earned. If the account or any portion thereof is withdrawn not more than 7 days after a maturity date, earnings shall be paid thereon at the Rate of Earnings in effect at maturity to date of withdrawal without penalty. To the extent necessary to comply with these requirements, deductions shall be made from the amount withdrawn or the remaining account balance.

*30 days for Non-Marketable Certificates of Deposit.

For Certificates renewing on or after February 1, 1991. This policy will apply to Retirement Plan Customers of all ages upon renewal. If your retirement funds are invested in a term account, and you (1) close the account and take distribution of the funds; OR (2) move the account to another institution; OR (3) request a special non-scheduled distribution from the account, the normal interest penalty will apply. (The penalty will not apply to regularly scheduled distributions which are available after age 59½ and are mandatory after age 70½.)

Hi,

I attended the fall show in Cablekill last fall and saw your Golden Compsies. At the time I could not locate you until by a chance conversation with Mr. Jelander, he told me you were listed in your family press.

I was interested in your Golden Compsies because of their larger size and color.

Do you sell chicks, eggs or adult birds?

Thank you

Dear Mr. Simmons,

Thank you for your letter of 2/3/93 about Golden Campines.

I don't think that I will have any eggs, chicks or adults for sale this year. I'll know for sure in a month or so.

In the event that I have eggs or chicks available,
I'll contact you.

I appreciate your interest
in my Golden Campines.

Thank you.

Dear Robert:

I was just looking at my last
H.A.A. year book & I read your article about your I.D. Club. I have my Rhode Island Red Club Club behind
my driver Lic. Very good point.

I then looked for your ad on Page 236 you have done well.

However, the win that rocked my eyes was your great Rose Comb Red Ckb that you won Champ of show on.

No person has one champion Bantam of a show on a Rose Comb Red Bantam since 6 yrs ago by Luther Frank of Calif.

Not one has one a win like you with a Rose Comb Large Fowl
since 1965 J. Frank Fack of Ohio. He had the Lost of the Hobbs Tompson Rose Comb Red Large Fowl.

My question to you is where did you get your Rose Combs from?

1711

Excellent type bird.

I have from what Dennis Myers feels is the best strain of true E.W. Reese Large Fowl. Dennis has Large Fowl that he got from MR Reese in 1982 & 1985 from chick. He & I swapped chicks last year & I will send him 25 of mine this year Mar. 1993. Wilbur Staffer is taking Dennis one of my Chls this weekend at a show in Florence Alabama. Wilbur is judging the Large Fowl & helping with the Bantam ~~here~~ Tri city Bantam Club Show

I raise only S.C. Red Large Fowl my wife & I have some Bantam S.C. Red but there not any way near the Large Fowl in surface color or both of back. But we will cross some Lee Roy Jones blood into our line this March. & I will improve our line in 2 to 3 yrs. I'm breeding a small Bantam 22-24 oz Pullish. Like my old friend R Paul Webb of Okla City Okl. you ever heard of Paul? He was the best in 1957-1969.

If you are interested in some
S.C. Reese Reds with Super type maybe we could swap some
S.C. Eggs for some of your R.C. eggs.

I'm going to try something this year & that is sending 8 day old eggs that are fertile to the west coast.
Then they will be put in a incubator
to see what the hatch will be.

Russell Roy a Cornish Breeder from Roseland La. told me the plain this in Japan. I read once by Loye Stormberg that they were shipping 18 day old eggs with success. Any way we will see.

Write me a note about your fine Rose Comb Reds & if you are interested in swapping some eggs
I'll have 2 Breeding Pairs of Mohawk & Hollywood Blood Lines. E.W. Reese Direct.
P.S. E.W. Reese is your friend
no longer selling Rhode Island Red chicks. He about washed up. Poor Health.
Rhode Island Red
Roth & Blood

We have shown 3 show
 in 3 months we have won 3 champ Large Fowls
 & 2 Res champ Large Fowls
 This is my last Cx1
 that won 2 weeks ago.
 Post chat. is a 2 yr old cock
 His Father is a 2 yr old cock Bird who I hope to win big at the show this weekend. ^{He is a level bird}
 He is on the ground

Same bird.

Ran out of other pictures
 that I set Dennis Myers & MR Reese.
 Will send you a few & some feather samples at another time.

Dear Robert:

It was a pleasure to receive your enthusiastic Rhode Island
Red letter of 2/3/93.

My standard Rose Comb Reds
are from ADRIAN J. RADEMACHER, 9185 County Road 10 East, Waconia,
MN 55387; phone 612-442-4031.

Rademacher has outstanding Rose Comb + Single Comb Reds; also
S.C. Black Minorcas. His show win are very impressive.
He advertises regularly in Poultry Press and you probably could get some eggs or chicks from him directly this Spring.

I am breeding from a single troop of standard Rose Comb Reds
this year: the cockerel that won so well last year and two ^{11/17} 2.

pulllets that were not shown last year but which have excellent type and color. So far, so good: fertility and hatchability
have been very good.

Whenever I can, I use setting hens to hatch and raise the chicks from "special" matings.

A couple days ago, a fantail
Black Wyandotte hen hatched
five more standard Rosecomb Reds.

Thank you for your offer to swap eggs. Maybe a little later in the spring we can work something out. I want to get some more chicks from my breeding trio before I think about swapping eggs.

1718 3.

I have a few Single Comb Reds
but they are not anywhere near the quality of the cockerel in the photo that you sent.
Anyone would be proud to own
that cockerel: nice long back, beautiful head, excellent type & color. My female S. C. Reds are much better than the males;
I don't have a male that I am interested in breeding from
and so, at present, I am not planning on raising any S. C.
Reds this year — which is one more reason why I should swap
some ^{R.C. RIR} eggs with you.

I'll stay in touch.

Sincerely,

Robert Powell

ANTWERP BELGIANS AND D'UCCLE BELGIANS

By S. Robert Powell

The names of many breeds and varieties of exhibition poultry are easy to spell and to pronounce, even though the birds in question originate in far away villages, cities and countries around the world: Hamburgs, Cubalayas, Polish, Anconas, Minorcas, Dorkings, Javas, Cochins, Brahmas, Sumatras, Malays, and so on. Other breeds and varieties, however, are not so easy when it comes to spelling and to pronunciation.

Two breeds of bantams from Belgium are the source of a lot of spelling and pronunciation problems: ANTWERP BELGIANS and UCCLE BELGIANS.

Antwerp ("Anvers" in French, "Antwerpen" in Flemish) is a city in northern Belgium. Uccle ("Ukkel" in Flemish) is also a city in Belgium. It is south of Brussels, not far from Waterloo. The bantams from those two cities should be called, in English, Antwerp Belgians or Uccle Belgians.

In French, the word for Belgians is "Belges." These bantams, in French, would, therefore, be called "Belges d'Anvers" or "Belges d'Uccle." The word "de" (or "d") when it comes before a vowel means "from" in French, and it would never be capitalized in this context.

Many people, it seems, use the term Belgians to refer to Antwerp Belgians. But to do so is an imprecise use of terminology, because there is more than one kind of bantam from Belgium. In addition to Antwerp Belgians, there are, for example, Uccle Belgians.

The name Uccle is not an easy name to pronounce in French, granted. A rough approximation in English phonemes might be "OO KLA." Uccle is not pronounced like the English word "uncle," to be sure, and Uccle Belgians should not, therefore, be called "de uncles," as many people call them.

The popularity of these two kinds of Belgian bantams, both of which are ranked among the 16 most popular breeds of bantams in America, is such that there are currently 14 varieties of Antwerp Belgians recognized by the APA and the ABA: Black, Blue, Cuckoo, Mille Fleurs, Mottled, Porcelain, Quail, Self Blue, White, Black Breasted Red, Blue Quail, Buff, Buff Columbian, and Columbian.

There are 10 recognized varieties of Uccle Belgians: Black, Blue, Buff, Golden Neck, Gray, Mille Fleurs, Mottled, Porcelain, Self Blue and White. S. Robert Powell Rd 1 Box 40, Carbondale, Pennsylvania 18407. 1-717-282-5197

THE MILLE FLEURS VARIETY

By S. Robert Powell

The poultry plumage color MILLE FLEURS is not an easy one to spell or to pronounce.

The name is spelled MILLE FLEURS. It means "a thousand flowers" in French. "Mille" means "a thousand" and

"Fleurs" means "flowers." "Mille" is never spelled with a final "s" in French; "Fleurs" takes a final "s" because it is a plural noun.

The pattern name is thought to have been created in the middle of the 15th century in the Loire district in France to describe tapestries and other fabrics with backgrounds that resembled fields that were sown with a thousand flowers. Such tapestries became popular and were produced in many parts of France and the Low Countries until the end of the 16th century.

The pattern name is also used to describe mosaic Venetian glass with a flowerlike pattern. In Italian, such glassware is known as "millefiori" glassware. It was made by fusing together slender rods of colored glass and cutting them transversely and joining the sections or embedding them in clear glass.

The technique of millefiori glassmaking was developed by the Romans in the 1st century B.C. and revived and refined by Venetian glassmakers in the 15th century. Since the mid-19th century, the technique has been used to make paperweights and gaming marbles.

The name MILLE FLEURS is not an easy one to pronounce. A rough approximation in English phonemes might be "MEAL FLUR."

Mille Fleurs, it must be remembered, is a plumage color and not the name of a breed of poultry. There are, for example, Mille Fleurs Rosecombs, Mille Fleurs Leghorn Bantams, and Mille Fleurs Antwerp Belgians.

But, in most cases, when people talk about birds of the Mille Fleurs plumage color, they are talking about Booted Bantams and/or Uccle Belgians. But what is a Booted Bantam and what is an Uccle Belgian?

The answer to that question is far from being cut and dried. Here is a summary account of the information in THE BANTAM STANDARD (ABA, 1988) and in THE AMERICAN STANDARD OF PERFECTION (APA, 1985) to answer that question.

If, when you talk about Mille Fleurs, you are talking about feather-legged, single-combed non-bearded bantams, you are probably talking about what the APA and the ABA agree are to be called Booted Bantams of the Mille Fleurs variety. The ABA, which says that Booted Bantams must be non-bearded, recognizes 10 colors of Booted Bantams: Black, Blue, Buff, Golden Neck, Gray, Mottled, Self-Blue, Mille Fleurs, Porcelain and White. Only the last three of those varieties have been admitted to the APA'S THE AMERICAN STANDARD OF PERFECTION, wherein they are specifically referred to as Non-Bearded Booted Bantams.

If, on the other hand, you are talking about feather-legged, single-combed, bearded bantams of the Mille Fleurs variety, you are probably talking about Booted Bantams and or Uccle Belgians and you have, as the matter now stands, your choice of names for those birds. The APA would call such birds Bearded Booted Bantams of the Mille Fleurs variety.

The APA, in other words, maintains that there are two primary variety groups of the breed Booted Bantams: Non-Bearded Booted Bantams and Bearded Booted Bantams. The APA notes that the Bearded Booted Bantams are sometimes called "D'Uccles."

The physical descriptions of the Bearded and the Non-Bearded Booted Bantams, the APA notes, are the same except for differences in the wattles, the neck and in the presence or absence of a beard and muff. The APA recognizes three varieties of Bearded Booted Bantams (Mille Fleurs, Porcelain, White) and three varieties of Non-Bearded Booted Bantams (Mille Fleurs, Porcelain, White).

The ABA, on the other hand, maintains that the non-bearded, feather-legged, single-combed birds and the bearded, feather-legged, single-combed birds, referred to here, represent two different breeds, each with a specific and identifiable type: Booted Bantams (non-bearded, feather-legged, single-combed; taken back to Holland in the 17th century from South China or Burma) and Uccle Belgians (bearded, feather-legged, single-combed; originated in the Belgian city of Uccle in the early 20th century, when Booted Bantams were crossed with Antwerp Belgians.)

The central point here is this: When one speaks about birds of the Mille Fleurs plumage color, one must associate that color with a specific breed: Mille Fleurs Leghorn Bantams, Mille Fleurs Booted Bantams, for example. One cannot speak of "Millies" and expect others to know what breed you are talking about "Partridge" or "Silver-Penciled" or "Wheaton" for example, and expect others to know what breed of poultry you are talking about.

more than one can talk about "Partridge" or "Silver-Penciled" or "Wheaton," for example, and expect others to know what breed of poultry you are talking about.

2/12/93 - 1 P.M.

PSU classes cancelled due to winter storm. Wonderful. I need the time at my desk.

Chicks everywhere. at present, I have 43 Chicks out & about, as follows.

- American Game bantam - 7

the Urh hen)
 - Std. Modern Game (from - 6
the Schuth hen)
 - Std. Rhode Island Red - 8
Rose Comb

I am very pleased with the hatching season to date: fertility and hatchability very good.

There are 31 fertile eggs in the incubator ^{at present}: 12 due on 2/14 and ^{and under hens} 14 due on 2/23; also 4 due on 2/23 under a bantam Wyandotte hen up in the barn.

Eleven of those 31 eggs are from "Prince Bird" and his two "dames"—i.e.—my award-winning standard Rose Comb Rhode Island Reds.

I am also hoping for some White or Columbian Wyandotte Chicks from the production White Wyandotte that I have mated to various males. I have already three Barred Wyandottes from her (very solid body, good stiff tail feathers, not so terrific on type) and the old standard White Wyandotte male (excellent Wyandotte type, tail feathers not a stiff and well defined as they should be). Some very good exhibition White Wyandottes (with superb vitality & vigor)

could easily result from the mating. I have also mated
the same hen to a very good typed standard Barred Rock, who barring is not so good but who has a wonderful

long back and an excellent Rock tail. I would like to get some Columbian Wyandottes or Rocks from the mating.
I am having a grand time
with these experimental matings. The results from another experimental mating
this season are looking very promising: the best bantam American Game Cockerel
(B. B. Red) mated to a very small and wonderfully colored (excellent stepping) bantam
B. B. Red. O. E. Game pullet
(from John Abbeken). The purpose of this mating is to produce smaller and better 5. colored bantam American Game. So far, the chicks all appear to be females, which is fine, and their coloring looks very good: stippling and not verruculation in the wings (one of my objectives); also they are small (another objective). At least half of them appear to have the correct leg color for bantam

B.B. Red American Game, which is blue. Those which I can not show, I will use as setters, of course. The chicks
from the standard B.B. Red

Modern Games all appear to be males, maybe not; there are 21 of them so far, so I am probably wrong on the gender of a few of them. I can't believe that I have 21 standard Modern Game chicks out & about so far. I am going to raise as many as I can. The same is true for the standard Rhode Island Red and Golden Campines. I think the young Campine pair are siblings — many fertile eggs and only one has hatched so far. Not very encouraging. There are 5 eggs from the Campine pullet now in 1739 7.

the incubator. I wish the old Campine hen (excellent color) would start to lay. She is very probably from a different blood line than the Cockerel and some excellent chicks should come from her.

There are twelve eggs that are due to hatch this weekend:

- 2 Modern Game - 1
- 3 Modern Game - 2
- 4 Rhode Island Red
- 1 White Wyandotte
- 2 American Game

about an hour ago, I heard chicks getting ready to hatch & moved the 12 eggs into the hatching incubator.

HEY, EU!

BY CHARLES McGRATH

ONE of the mysteries surrounding the early days of The New Yorker is why a fledgling Jazz Age weekly selected a hyperopic Regency lepidopterist as its figurehead. Eustace Tilley, as that starch-looking gent with the beaver hat and the monocle came to be known, was created by Rea Irvin, The New Yorker's original art editor, and appeared on the cover of the magazine's first issue, on February 21, 1925, and also, in a slightly different pose, in the drawing above the first Talk of the Town department. He has presided over Talk every week since, and has reappeared once a year on our anniversary cover, giving rise to some iconographic speculation. Why does the cover Tilley look leftward—in the classic style of Piero's "Duke of Urbino"—while the Talk Tilley gazes off to the right? Why has the butterfly been replaced by an owl? What was Irvin trying to say here? Probably not much. The design looked pretty good—it still does—and they had to put something in that first issue.

The name was coined by Corey Ford, an adman who was a friend of Harold Ross's—Tilley after Ford's aunt, and Eustace just because it sounded right—and this mythic character figured in some of The New Yorker's early promotional material. (He was one of the magazine's "special superintendents of forestry," among other things.) Eventually, Tilley acquired a literary identity, too. He had his own byline for a while, on a series of comic pieces actually written by Ford, and he turned up periodically in Comment pieces written by E. B. White and others. Tilley, those interested could learn, was invariably well dressed (his threads included a pair of dogskin gloves and a suit of pigeon-gray hopsacking), he kept mourning doves, he dined and danced (and once made out with one of our sub-ribbers in someone's kitchen), he went to openings and P.R. events, and he delivered himself of opinions on everything from taxation to the New Math. Tilley had become something of a pain in the neck, to tell the truth—a combination of Oscar Wilde and Bertie Wooster—but he embodied two of the early New Yorker's most characteristic and contradictory editorial traits: sophistication and an air of bemused detachment.

In recent years, a cameo of Tilley has ornamented our Table of Contents page, and observant readers may have glimpsed him, in Michael Witte's drawings, traipsing through our Goings On About Town section: Tilley at the theatre, Tilley watching the Mets, Tilley directing a movie, Tilley watching the tube, and so forth. He has persisted so long, as both icon and mystery, that this year, in honor of his sixty-eighth birthday, it seemed time to treat the old guy to a face-lift—a morph job. We invited a number of artists to reimagine Eustace Tilley however they wished, and the results are on the following pages: Tilley canned, Fauved, Cubed, flayed, bloated, steamrolled, and so on. But, remarkably, not aged, or not very much. He remains odd and elongated, inquisitive, and not quite of this world—our own E.T. ♦

FLYING TIPPLER ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA BULLETIN

Addendum

S. Robert Powell, Secretary

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Hope that this finds all of you with your birds having made it through the winter in good shape. By now I am sure that most of you have paired up your Tipplers and are well into producing your next young bird kits. Assuming that you have kept a few extras over it is time also to be thinking about resettling those old bird kits to get ready for the 1993 competitive flying season. The end of April is not all that far away. Make it a goal to put a kit into at least one of the FTA competitions this year.

We have elected our officers for the next two years. We are here to serve the membership. But we cannot do it in a vacuum. We need the input of the membership to be able to guide the club in the direction that we, as a club, want to go. If you have any suggestions contact one of the officers.

I was able to make it out to the N.P.A. Grand National. It was a good show, about 6000 birds. The National Exhibition Tippler Association held a meet and had a pretty good turnout. Michael Seiler did the judging. Champion went to Michael Richardson on a print old cock. Ed Buraczewski had first reserve with a blue check. Second reserve was the best grizzle by Nelson Garcia. An Isabella, best bar, of Al Ramirez was third reserve. And Ed Buraczewski's mottle was the fourth reserve. It was a pleasure to see some of the "Eastern" Tippler fanciers. I was a bit disappointed though as I had thought with the show in eastern Pennsylvania there would have been more on hand. Was nice to see Ed Young again as well as Dick Seabridge, Ed and Rosine Buraczewski and John Smith. Met a few new friends as well as saw some of the regulars that make it to Louisville, Walter Weichec and Michael Richardson.

Best wishes to all for a successful season, Tim.

1993 FLY DATES

Fly dates for 1993 should remain the traditional schedule. The way I figure it that will make it; Spring Series April 24,25; May 8,9; May 22,23. Summer Series June 5,6; June 19,20; July 3,4. Fall Series September 18,18; October 2,3; October 16,17; October 30,31.

FROM THE SECRETARY

The results of the FTA election of Officers and Board of Directors for 1993-1994 are presented herein on pages 1-2. Congratulations to the winners and to all who participated in the election, whether you won or not.

Sixteen FTA members made the nominations that were listed on the ballot, and ninety-four ballots were mailed out by the Secretary on 12-21-1992. Only 33 members (about 30% of the membership) voted.

In the past several months, no less than 20 names have been added to the membership rolls, WHICH IS WONDERFUL! The majority of those 20 Tippler enthusiasts are new members of the FTA; one or two are former members who have re-joined the FTA. Welcome to one and all. On pages 2 and 3, you will find specific information about these twenty new additions to the FTA membership rolls.

Also presented in this BULLETIN are "Get to Know" forms from Stanley Seibel, Ray Slater, Tom Budano, and Bela Kiss. Most of those "Get to Know" forms are accompanied by photographs. Special thanks to Jerry O'Rourke for preparing these forms for publication. As I think most of you know, these "Get to Know" forms are Jerry's idea--and a very good idea they are, I'm sure you will agree.

On page 10, you will see photographs of (1) FTA Central Timer, Jerry O'Rourke, and his loft, and (2) FTA President, Tim Kvidera, and his loft.

It is certainly not too early to start thinking about the Spring and Summer competition flies that are sponsored by the FTA. If you have never participated in these flies, you owe it to yourself and to your birds to do so. For detailed information on how to enter and participate in these flies, contact the Central Timer: Jerry O'Rourke, 201 Codman Road, Norwood, MA 02062. The specific dates of the FTA competition flies for 1993 will be listed in the next issue of the FTA BULLETIN.

ADDITIONS TO FTA MEMBERSHIP ROLLS

A membership list was published in the November 16, 1992 FTA BULLETIN (pp. 4-6). Twelve of the persons in that list are new or returning members to the FTA. They are:

1. GARY HULST (124 56th Avenue, Zeeland, MI 49464; phone: 616-688-5522). When Gary ordered FTA bands for 1993, he enclosed the following note to Walter Wiechec:

"Was nice to meet you at the National Young Bird Show. I had a great time. Thanks for the back BULLETINS and the FTA Fly Rules. I am hooked on Tipplers. Flying them sure is fun. Now I know the times I must beat. It will be a challenge. I hope to fly most of the dates. The BULLETINS are great... I plan on breeding from three pairs this year."

2. DAVID KALLEMEYN (933 Kurt Lane, Crete, IL 60417).

3. FRED LANTING (995 Line 6, RR 4, Niagara on-the-Lake, Ontario, Canada L0S-LJ0).

4. NEIL MIGLIORE (14 Grace Lane, Oyster Bay Cove, NY 11711).

5. R. OMER OGREN (Route 1, Box 155, Dike, TX 75437).

6. CHUCK PARSONS (4766 Heynig Road, Harbor Springs, MI 49740). Chuck sent the following note to Walter Wiechec when he joined the FTA:

"After ten frustrating years of trying to raise Rollers, I am getting out the sport and want to try Tipplers. For the past 10 years, I bought birds from the East, Midwest, West Coast. Subscribed to 2 of the flying roller club journals, built a new $200 flying kit box (loft). Dark, ventilated, etc. I have 10 acres of open field out back, they get fresh water with electrolytes, grit, all the feed combinations recommended. Plus underfeeding and overfeeding. What I now have is about 20 birds that fly about 15-20 minutes at about 200 feet! Very frustrating, and not enough enjoyment for all the time and money invested.... I will be needing some birds. If you know or have any members in Michigan, Ohio or Wisconsin I could correspond with and buy some birds to get started with, I'd appreciate it...."

7. KERRY RICHARDSON (359 Mosher Road, Gorham, ME 04038).

8. LARRY B. ROTHWELL (3842 Blue Ridge Boulevard, Independence, MO 64052). Larry writes: "...I'm just starting out with Tipplers and would like to meet some guys in this area."

9. CARL SCHWARTZ (238 Smith, Columbus, IN 47201. Phone: 812-372-4340).

10. RONALD J. SLOAN (52 Lovely Street, Winsted, CT 06098-2020. Phone: 203-738-0058). Ronald writes: "...Would like to obtain Bronze Mottle birds, young or old. Any help? Who has some?..."

11. LT. COL. FRED C. SMITH (17 Harris Road, Benson Town, Bangalore 46, South India). Lt. Colonel Smith's membership was a gift from Kennie M. Linn (755 N. Saginaw Street, Owosso, MI 48867) who, on 09-07-1992, wrote to the FTA Secretary as follows:

"... While in India, I didn't really get into the flying of Tipplers in kits, but did try some and even tried to get them used to get down after it got dark by turning on the lights in the loft. That was fun but here in the USA, after I retired, I have never gotten back into pigeons... You do have an advantage here, though, over India, because we are so close to the equator there that the day is usually about 12 hours long, not long days like you have here on the 21st of June..."

12. JOHN SMITH (6127 Edmund Street, Philadelphia, PA 19135).

NEW MEMBERS WHOSE NAMES ARE NOT LISTED IN THE FTA MEMBERSHIP LIST THAT IS GIVEN IN THE 11-16-1992 FTA BULLETIN:

1. EDWARD O. BROUILLETTE (61 Ruth Avenue, Dracut, MA 01826).

2. ERIK HALL (207 Sterling Street, Port Jefferson Station, NY 11776).

3. STEVE IMIOLA (325 Atlantic Avenue, Buffalo, NY 14212).

4. FRANK KHAN (8531 Algoma, Rockford, MI 49341).

5. PETER J. NORONHA (6693 Clifford Drive, Cupertino, CA 95014)

6. DONALD R. PISOWICZ (85 Edmdashowicz, Porter, IN 46304). When Don became a member on 01-28-1993, he included the following note to Walter Wiechec:

"...I have experience with flying Rollers and Racing Homers but I am not at all familiar with the training of Tiplers. Please send me any information that you think can help me start out in the right direction. I heard that your BULLETINS have tips, etc. on how to prepare the Tiplers for long flights. I now have 3 pair of breeding age Tiplers that I got from a fancier who doesn't fly in any competitions but he does fly his birds around the loft. They look like real genuine Flying Tiplers that I used to see around the Chicago area when I was a kid..."

7. JACK ROWLAND (1023-38 Tiffin Street, Bucyrus, OH 44820).

8. JAMES ROY SPIECE (23 Ravine Road, St. Catherine's, Ontario, CANADA L2P-3A6)

MICROFILMING PROJECT

In response to the request from the Secretary for the loan of Flying Tippler documents, articles, newsletters, books, etc. from the past to be included with the materials to be microfilmed "for the record" by the Secretary, OMER OGREN sent the Secretary, on 10-08-92, five FTA BULLETINS, from the period 1981-1983, that belonged to former FTA member, Ed Hernandez. Those five BULLETINS are dated: August 3, 1981; September 1981; December 1981; April 1982, September 1983, and November 1983. The Secretary-Treasurer of the FTA at that time was Tim Kvidera, who now serves the FTA as President.

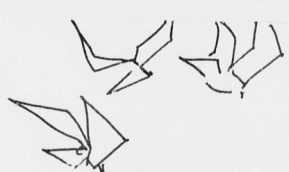

Thank you, Omer, for sending along those materials for the historical archive. Omer starts his day bright and early and about the time that many of us are just getting going, Omer has finished his morning chores. Two or three times, in recent months, Omer and the Secretary have had some very interesting Tippler conversations not long after 8 A.M.

If you have any materials that you think should be included in this microfilming project, the Secretary would be pleased to borrow them for this important project.

THE JOHN T. CURLEY BOOK

Have you read THE TIME-FLYING TIPPLER SPORT by John T. Curley? If you haven't, FTA member TOM MURPHY (11324 Country Club Road, Waynesboro, PA 17268) can make you a copy from his copy that he made from an original copy that was lent to him by FTA member RALPH BRITT. My guess is that Tom, who has access to a xerox machine, could mail you a copy, book rate, for about $2.00. Contact Tom if you would like to get a copy of this important book by Curley.

Tom has suggested that a copy of the Curley book be included in a packet of materials sent to all new members of the FTA. The idea is a good one, and the Secretary and Tom will work on the details of how the mailings will be handled.

1. Got interested in pigeons from school friends in the 6th Grade.
2. Three lofts - 1 is 4x4x7', 1 is 2x4x6' and 1 is 2x4x6'.
3. Flies Lovatts. Saw Dick Seabridge's Ad 'n the APJ and it was one hour away from Phillipsburg.
4. Keeps 25 young birds and breeds from 5 pairs.
5. Flies birds 2 or 3 times a week. Hawks are a problem at times, cats are a problem all the time.
6. Does not use kit boxes. Flying birds are housed together in one Coop.
7. One Turbit hen used as Dropper. Birds are not trained to darkness. When they land on the house roof just before dark, they are there all night.
8. Comments or suggestions for fellow flyers:
Lovatts are easy to train and they fly 6-8 hours when just 6 or 7 weeks old. Fly okay on regular pigeon feed, not as good on feed with flint corn. Barley's best. Can see why Dick Seabridge is the best flyer the past twenty years.
9. Never had a chance to fly in an Official fly - no timer nearby.
10. No photo right now.
11. Birds for sale, plenty of young and old. Willing to ship but have no provisions to ship.

Name: Ray Slater

Address: 7 Arlington St., Chelmsford, Ma.

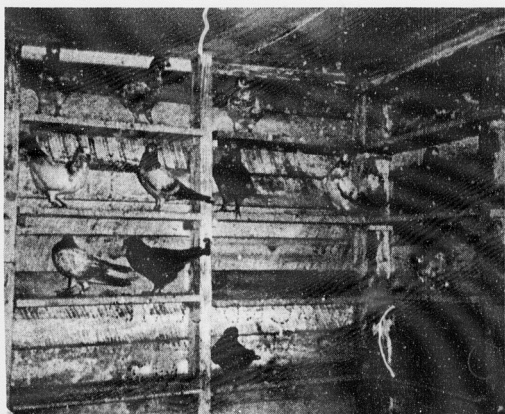

Telephone: 508-256-145

Name of Loft: WESTLAND LOFTS

1. Started at 12 years old with two pairs of White Muffed Tumblers that my father got for me. He made me a small loft and kept and bred these birds until World War II. Got married after the War, and secured some more birds when I moved to Chelmsford. These were some Homers, Modenas and Show Kings. I kept them off and on for years. Recently got interested in Tipplers after reading up on them in the APJ. I'M hooked on them now.
2. I have two breeding lofts 8x10 and two flying lofts 4x8 and 8x8.
3. I fly Lovatts from Richard Seabridge, Stanley Seibel and Dr. Paul Bongiovanni. This strain was advised to me by Jerry O'Rourke, the Central Timer.
4. I keep 60 on the average (too many) and breed from 10-15 pairs.
5. Birds are flown as often as possible, weather permitting. They are not flown with heavy snow cover. I don't have much of a Hawk problem due to the amount of Crows around my area.
6. Do not use kit boxes. Birds are housed in separate lofts with fly pens in front of lofts.

7. Does not use Droppers. Birds are trained to darkness.
8. No comment or suggestions to pass on to fellow members.
9. I enjoy my membership in the FTA and the Bulletins. The different color bands each year is a plus.
10. See pictures attached.
11. Birds are available mostly in the Fall and Winter. Will ship birds in a MBC container sent to me via Parcel Post.

1. Started when I was 13 years old. A friend of mine had a Loft. For me, it was love at first sight in 1941.
2. Loft is 8x16x9' High slanting to 7'.
3. Fly Maccolesfield because they are high flyers and smart and look like Danishes.
4. Keep about 25-35 birds. Breeds from whatever pair lays eggs.
5. Fly birds only on weekends because I live in New York and my loft is in Pennsylvania. Has some problems with hawks. I have been able to cut down on predators by standing in the open about ten feet away from loft - then let them in immediately after dropping.
6. No kit boxes - I have a loft separation inside 8' Long and 6' wide on both sides.
7. Uses White Indian Fantails as Droppers. Birds not completely trained to darkness, sometimes they stay up at night.
8. Comment for fellow members: "Keep your birds on a health program of vitamins and medication - never handle birds unless necessary. I only see my birds on weekends and hardly ever have a sick one."
9. Comments regarding FTA: "No comment, I'm only a new member. I joined a few months ago."
10. Picture enclosed.
11. Will ship only if purchaser has the equipment to ship.

ADDITIONAL NOTES FROM Mr. Budano:

1759

"I live in New York City, but my loft is in Pennsylvania. I only get to fly my birds on weekends - the rest of the week they are penned up and on their own. I supply food and water for a week and they do the rest. I keep them on a strict health Program because they spill feed on their droppings and the water is not changed in a week. I have to leave feed for them in Cafeterias in the loft and it tends to get dirty. I also inject them for PMV1 and Paratyphoid every 6 months. I very rarely have a sick bird. I also raise Indian Fantails and Pigmy Pouters in the same manner."

4. Keep 100-150 Pigeons. Breed from 24 pairs.
5. Birds flown every day. Have hawk problems but no solution. (Feeding the crows seems to help - they keep hawks away.)
6. Uses kit boxes - three 4x4 lofts and one 4x8.
7. Does not use Droppers - will use M/F Helmets. Birds not trained to darkness.
8. Comments for fellow flyers: Have fun.

- 10 pairs of Rollers
- 6 pairs of Tipplers
- 3 pairs of Doneks
- 3 pairs of M/F Helmets
- 2 pairs of Show Flights

2. Loft is 10x12 sectioned off 3 ways: Cocks, hens and flyers.
3. I fly the Lovatt strain of Tipplers because I like their temperament, flying abilities and colors.
4. I keep 30-50 birds. Breed from 10-12 pairs per year.
5. If and when I have flyers, I fly them as often as the weather permits. I seldom have problems with predators.
6. I don't use kit boxes. I house my flying birds in separate sections from my breeders.
7. I do not use Droppers at this time. My flyers are not trained to darkness.
8. Comments or suggestions to fellow members: if You are serious enough to fly Tipplers, try to fly them in competition. Breed from the best possible strain. You need good endurance strain of birds to get good flying time. (This is my personal experience.)
9. Regarding the FTA, the leadership of the Club is doing a super job. Keep up the good work, guys. I can't see making any changes at this time.

English 102 at Augulhanna High School tonight at 6:15 P.M.; I will have to leave in about 45 minutes. I wish that I had said "no" to LCCC's request to teach two sections of English 102 this semester. Too much driving, not enough pay, students very mediocre. This is the 4th week of Class and there are 10 more weeks to go! I will do it, but it will not be with pleasure. Everything about LCCC is irritating. After this semester, I don't believe that I will have anything more^{to} do with them. The worst part about it is that my Monday and Thursday nights are completely taken up with the 3-hour classes.

We are in the throes of a particularly unpleasant session of cold weather and I shall be very happy when it is over. There are more than a few chicks now in brooders in the cellar that should be up in the barn, but I don't want to move them until the weather softens a bit. Two Black Wyandotte bantams are setting in the barn: one on 4 R.C. RIR eggs that are due out on $2\frac{1}{2}$ 3; the other on 4 R.C. RIR eggs that are due out on $3\frac{1}{2}$. Finding a spot ^{for} both hens will be a problem unless I do some shuffling about and I must do it soon. Time is lacking; maybe on Saturday I can do what has to be done?

The 2/17/93 FTA Bulletin is now a physical reality and it will be mailed out to the membership tomorrow. It is, I'm delighted to report, a beautiful document. The printing and production are first rate — the many photographs look better in the printed document than in the originals. The membership should be well pleased, although most of them will say nothing. The new green ink mailing envelopes are, I think, very impressive.

Below zero again tonight. It was -10°F this morning and my Penquet would not start. Tomorrow morning I will have it towed to Bob's Garage in Carbondale and he will get it back in running.

order as he always does. I am supposed to work at Wal-Mart tomorrow night but will not be able to do so same vantage.

No chicks are due this week-end; none until 2/23, when 19 are due to hatch! If all goes well, this could be the largest single hatch of the season. The hens are slowing down a bit on the eggs at present; the 2nd Modern Game hen has now stopped laying, more or less. The two Rhode Island Red pullets (mated to "Prince Bird") continue to lay well and there are currently 14 fertile "Red" eggs under incubation, which is wonderful. There are 12 RIR chicks out and about and growing nicely. If I can successfully raise a couple dozen chicks from 1767 3.

"Prince Bird" and his two "ladies fair," it is very likely that I will have some impressive show birds for the Fall and Winter shows. The variables &
the unknown are many; but so far so good. What I am now waiting for are more Campines.
a couple of eggs are due to hatch
on 2/23 and there are three other eggs under incubation. The pullet laid again today. Also on my wish list are some Columbian Colored Wyandottes
and some White Wyandottes.
Three of the "special" Wyandotte
eggs are due to hatch on Tuesday;
six others are under incubation.
a very high priority is to move
some chicks up to the barn.

Saturday 2/20/93

Dear Robert,

I couldn't remember if I told you my new phone number so here it is 516 423 9473. I had to have it changed because my mother suddenly found me & began calling. Hopefully I won't ever hear from him again, no bad news.

I keep wondering how you are. I can't really call because I have to live very carefully with regard to money. My refinancing finally went through - after 6 months - but my finances are still a little tight. I still have a job but things are not too good at Allstate - (what with all the catastrophes (including Sears))

I guess you're still looking. I wish you'd come to New York. There are so many schools here. Have you heard about any openings?

Isn't life weird? I can't believe that I'm ending up on Long Island. (They really say that). Can't say I'm very fond of the people here - they suck, it's a matter of fact. But I love my house and the area is interesting. I just wish "they" weren't

Here (and you were).

My mother may have a buyer for her co-op & is anxious to move to Florida.
I haven't seen her much, anyway lately,
mostly because of this miserable weather.
But I feel pretty much alone here.

What a strange life. Remember when we lived in the city & went out to the bars
all the time? Life seemed so full.

Well, I suppose things could be worse.
I almost lost Max, my cockatiel, over Christmas, but he pulled through & seems
ok. And Cassandra is her usual sotter self.

As you can undoubtedly tell, I'm not in the best of moods. (I think I'm nervous that Clinton is going to take me right out of this house.) So I won't bother myself on you any longer —
except to say

Please keep in touch

Love

Mary

2/20/93 - 4:20 P.M.

I have been waiting all day for this time at my desk. I have been dashing about constantly since 8 A.M., when Dad was agitating to be taken to Mercy Hospital because of the consistency of his fecal matter, if you please. I managed to get Dr. Gallagher's week-end cover at the hospital and he assured me — and Walter Powell — that there was nothing to be alarmed about. It was -10°F again this morning and so the morning poetry Chores were somewhat taxing because water dishes that never freeze were frozen this morning. All is well at the barn — the "hens" are cold but well. Came down from the barn and had my Renault towed into town because it wouldn't start. Bob's Garage — new spark plugs and we're back on the road.

While the car was being repaired, ^{2.}
I went to the CPO and mailed out the 2/17/93 issue of the FTA
Bulletin; then went to the BBC
and did the bulletin for tomorrow morning's worship service. Picked up the car, came home, did
the evening poetry Chorus, vacuumed the front stairs for mom, and am now having
"morning coffee" at my desk.
I was supposed to work at Wal-mart from 4 PM to Close tonight (9 PM + an hour or so) but I simply can not handle it. I'll work tomorrow afternoon and early evening - although, if I were to work tonight at Wal-Mart, I could probably get out of working tomorrow afternoon.
Maybe that's what I'll do.
I'll decide in the next 15 minutes.

2/21/93 - 5 P.M.

Two days of -10°F weather and now a major winter storm; gusty winds from the east and north and about a foot of snow expected. A warming trend is expected and so there will doubtless be freezing rain and a real mess as the weather system works it out. In the meantime, I shall stay at my desk and take advantage of the gained time.

It's cold up at the barn but the birds are ok; at times such as this, I redouble my resolve to build a "poultry palace" in which the birds will be completely impervious to such nasty weather. Summer is the time for such building projects and this Spring and Summer, I will take action in that regard.

The space in the chick boxes down cellar is getting crowded and I must move some of the older chicks up to the barn as soon as possible.

RE: DEDUCTION OF THE OCCUPATIONAL PRIVILEGE TAX

DATE: FEBRUARY 19, 1993

As an adjunct faculty member, we are aware that the "Occupational Privilege Tax" may be deducted by another employer.

The college will be deducting the $10.00 Occupational Privilege Tax (OPT) from the March 19, 1993 payroll. The college will not deduct the OPT, if you provide the payroll department with one of the following:

1. A copy of your employer provided receipt. If your employer does not provide receipts, a copy of your 1993 paystub noting the OPT, amount, date of deduction, and your name may be substituted. Please black out any other information on your paystub.

2. A letter or memo signed by your employer noting your name and the date that this employer will withhold the 1993 OPT tax.

NO OTHER TYPE OF DOCUMENTATION OR PHONE VERIFICATION WILL BE ACCEPTABLE. PLEASE MAIL THE DOCUMENTATION TO THE COLLEGE'S MAIN CAMPUS ADDRESS WITH "ATTENTION: PAYROLL DEPT (OPT)".

Without receipt of either documentation by no later than MARCH 5, 1993, the college will automatically deduct the OPT.

If you have any further questions, please call me at the main campus between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, at 829-7368. If this is not convenient, please call the switchboard (735-8300, or 829-7300, or 459-1600) to leave a message until 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and until 9 p.m. on Fridays.

We hope that you will enjoy your teaching experience at the college during this spring semester.

The oldest chicks (those hatched on 1/1, 1/9, 1/16, and some of those hatched on 1/23) have been moved up to the barn - I moved them this morning, after some shuffling about to create space up at the barn, and all appear to be very tranquil, although some of the roosters who had to be moved up in the barn are sparring with their neighbors through the wire. There are about 6 or 8 roosters that I could easily de-accession, and I will do so as soon as the "embargo" on the sale of live birds, due to an outbreak of avian influenza in Southern Pennsylvania, is lifted. I will do so at the Nicholson Livestock Market. I tried to take some birds there a few weeks ago and found out then about the interdiction on the sale of live birds.

The Annual Spring Show, scheduled for April 24-25, 1993

We will keep you on our mailing list for that event.
Cancellation is due to the travel restrictions forced upon

LUZERNE COUNTY COMMUNITY COLLEGE
English 102: Sections E and U, Dr. S. R. Powell, Spring Semester 1993
Prose Exam

1. Characterize briefly the three primary theories of what literature is.
2. What are some of the things that we, as readers, must do if we are to appreciate aesthetically a work in prose?
3. All writers have a style that is recognizably their own and which they use to convey their "story" to us, the readers. As such, a piece of literature can be seen as a performance in words. Comment on some of the different prose styles (showing and telling, colloquial speech, direct discourse, nominal style, verbal style, sentence length, etc.) that we have encountered in this course.
4. Robert Frost once said: "There is no story written that has any value at all, however straightforward it looks and free from doubleness, double entendre, and duplicity and double play, that you'd value at all if it didn't have intimations of something more than itself." Illustrate that statement by Frost with prose texts that we have read in this course.
5. In reading, "we may think we want nice stories with attractive heroes and heroines--persons whom we can fantasize as ourselves--and with lots of action and a happy ending and a reassuring moral, but what we are more likely to get from the great storytellers is a subversive story, a story that does not confirm the values we already hold but that, rather, seeks to induce new values in us" or which, at the very least, as Kafka said, attempts "to wake us, as with a fist hammering on our skull." How and to what extent are some of the prose works that we have read in this course subversive? How do they "hammer on our skull"?
6. Which, in your opinion, is "the best" work in prose that we have read? Why? What is the value of writing about literature? Describe briefly two common approaches to writing about literature.

3/2/93 - 11 A.M.

I am currently being "swept away"
by the second movement of the Rachmaninoff ^{Opus 18} Piano Concerto ^{F minor} #2, in a taped performance that I have (tape # 30, side B). I'm not sure if it's a live performance or not but it is unbelievably beautiful. It has been many weeks since I have been so overwhelmed by a piece of a music;
the sound of hatching chicks is blending with the Rachmaninoff.
Thomas Vashari, ^{pianist} London Symphony orchestra; conductor Yuri

8 P.M. - the 9th ^{incubator} hatch of the year is going on right now. Two "experimental" Wyandottes out and about; also a

yet to come - maybe in the next few hours, certainly before tomorrow.

Also due today are the three RIR eggs
under a Black Wyandotte bantam hen up at the barn. One egg was started to hatch when I came down at about 5 P.M. Maybe when I go up to feed the chicks at about 10 P.M.

there will be a RIR out and about. Also put 22 more eggs
in the incubator this afternoon:
9 RIR, 2 Campine, 3 Wyandotte,
4 MG-standard, 4 M J-bantam.
To my great pleasure, I discovered that the Black modern Game bantam egg that I put in the incubator on 2/24 is fertile.
I have yet to have the pleasure of hatching any Modern Game bantams. Maybe this egg will go full term? Four more eggs were put in the incubator
today at about 5 P.M.

Dear Robert:

Thank you for your nice letter today. My wife read it to me over the phone. I am at work and have a slow time between appointments. I just wrote Dennis Myers a letter & sent him about 20 pictures of my Reds.

Dennis & I have been friends for about 3 years. I am crossing some of his Myers-Reese Reds with my E.W. Reese - Dry Creek Farm Reds.

However, my Reds are changing in look. They more like the old Mrs. Donald Donaldson - Harold Tompkins look of the 1937 time period.

We are putting breeding pressure on the tail & back this year. We need about 2 more inches of both on our Hollywood line Bats. Our ~~main~~ ^{main} line has great length but not as good a feather on the back area. But it is getting better.

We started out with 3 Females & 3 Males CK's. Mated them each way 9 matings. 1989

¹⁴⁹⁰
The second year same thing 3 females mated to one male for 3 weeks 1 week Rest & then 2nd Male for 8-21 days then a Rest & then the last male for 30 days. That gives us 3 matings with the 3 Pullets. We Pedigree each egg & chick.

This year we have

Pen I 4 Females 1 CK1

Pen II I have 2 Pullets 1 CK1

Pen III 4 Pull 1 cock

Pen IV 1 cock & 1 Hen the left from last year.

IN the latter part of the season after you can spare some Rose Comb eggs. A dozen at a time would be fine. I'll send you the same.

I just need 5 to 9 good chicks with a good Rose Comb. your male had a great head. I would love to have his head on my

Mohawk body females.

The Mohawk have a lot of the Rose Comb gene in it.
The blades on my males
have little slits on the back.
This is only a $\frac{1}{2}$ point cut.
But that showing the Rose Comb gene from around 1908 to 1910. Lester Tompkins blood.
That's my feelings anyway.

If you get a good type Red you can put breeding pressure on the combs & within 3-5 years you can have great combs.

I have 3 CK15 & 4 Pallets
this year with 5 point combs.
Keep breeding with these birds &
within a few years it will become a fixed trait.

I've started a column in the Panty Press called Let's Talk Reds. Maybe
one day we can interview
you & get a little information about you & your interest with Reds

I also wrote a article for the APR year book called In Search of the Lost Gene. It's now I found the tails or fully furnished tails on my Reds. I've studied Rhode Island
Reds all the way back to 1901.
I've seen the introduction in the John Tompkins Blood from about 1875 to 1900. Let's Tompkins started with his dad's Blood.
Harold Tompkins started in 1910
with his Dad's Blood. WARR Doradson started in 1910 with over Farmer Blood but had

Harold Tompkin blood 1936-37
4 1952.

Thas MR Reese got his birds from MRS Donaldson
by the way of Buddy Day of Tompkin Ia.

Day Creek Farm got there start from MR Reese & got my blood from them.

The gens are there, all you have to do is go after the look of the old days. That ^{Rose} comp Cousin you have in a Harold Tompkin look of 1938-1945.

Well I'll get them in the mail.
We can send you a few eggs
when you want them say 3-6 weeks. Then you can send me a few when you can. No hurry.

Best Regards Robert Bliss

was our first time to have large fowl in our show, and we look forward to seeing more next year. The other winners of breeds and varieties are listed in the show report section of the "Poultry Press".

Our judges were Ralph Sheriff, Jr. of South Carolina, James Cooper from Texas, and Jerry McCarty of Louisiana. Mr. McCarty stepped in at the last minute to judge the large fowl, a 4-H poultry project sponsored by the club, and some bantam classes. All the judges did a wonderful job.

Our club wishes to thank all the exhibitors and the judges, and we look forward to seeing you all again next year. We are already anticipating even more entries next year and are making plans to reserve a larger exhibition hall. The experiences of this show will help us to make 1994's show even better.

3/4/93-7 P.M.

Frightening winds from the east; very strong gusts. It is enough to cause me to worry about roof being blown off, trees down & no power. There are about 40 "special" eggs in the incubator and a power failure would be very unfortunate to be sure. If the lights go out, I will immediately cover the incubator with an insulated jacket and a blanket and hope for the best. What else can I do. It would be foolish to try and pack up the incubator and take it to electricity. The highways are surely very dangerous to be on in such a storm. With any luck, no emergency procedures will have to be instituted to maintain the incubator. A certain amount of scrambling about would have to be done to make sure that the chicks down cellar and up in the barn

did not pile up on each other and suffocate.

How long can the front of the storm take to pass through? It's been going on/passing through for about 4 hours now and it is making me nervous. I would like to see the latest weather report on the television to get an idea of how long we can expect the nasty winds, which are sweeping up the valley from the East. It's always better when one understands the "big picture";
anything can be endured if one sees the context. As soon as Dad goes to bed, Mom will turn on the television and CNN will present the details of the storm.

3/7/93 - put in its final form an article entitled "The Columbian Variety" and mailed it to Bill Wueff today; it is a good article and very timely as the Columbian variety, so named, is 100 years old this May. It will be very fitting for this article to be published in the April or May Poetry Press.

Also decided to make a lump sum purchase of Wal-Mart stock today; they contribute ## (15%) on the first $1,800 that one spends per annum on Wal-Mart stock. In the short period that I have been with them I have had $250 deducted from my payroll checks for stock purchase. And so I mailed out a check for $1,550

worth of company stock today;
deadline per annum is March 15th.
They will contribute 15% or $232.50
Where else can you get 15% on your money these days? No Where.
The company is growing by leaps and bounds and expects to be one of the largest employers/companies in America before too long—which means that the stock will only get more valuable as time passes. It's a good investment, to be sure. And so, in working for Wal-Mart and so, I am, in effect, working for myself. I shall be interested to see who mentions to me my lump sum purchase at the store. I'm sure that the amount will be noted by management.

Dear Mr. Powell,

I am very slow in writing letters! I have been waiting until we knew something definite about hatching chicks for this year. It looks like that we may start hatching chicks sometime in April.

I have you down for 25 Black Orpington Chicks and I will let you know about two weeks in advance as to the date of shipment. We usually candle the eggs at the end of the first week of setting and if it looks like there will be enough hatch for shipment I will call you. When I call you as to a shipment date then you can send the money. Also let the Post Office know the day before they should arrive. I take the chicks to the airport Post Office, usually on Mondays, and they should be there the next day. We get $2.50 ea. for the Orpingtons.

Again I apologize for taking so long. If you have any questions please feel free to ask

THE COLUMBIAN VARIETY

By S. Robert Powell

To commemorate the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America in 1492 by Christopher Columbus, the World's Columbian Exposition, which was dedicated on October 23, 1892 and opened in May, 1893, was held in Chicago.

On display at that gigantic exposition, which covered 666 acres and which was attended by one of every ten Americans, were such wonders as the Pullman car, the linotype machine, the first ferris wheel (which 2,160 people could ride at one time), and COLUMBIAN WYANDOTTES.

From the APA's THE AMERICAN STANDARD OF PERFECTION (p. 47) we learn (1) that this was the first time that Columbian Wyandottes were exhibited, and (2) that that variety was produced by crossing a White Wyandotte with a Barred Plymouth Rock.

The word "Columbian," it is important to remember, is the adjective that refers to "Columbus" or to "the time of Columbus." And so, COLUMBIAN Wyandottes were so named in order to commemorate the fact that they were first exhibited at the exposition that marked the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America.

The Columbian color pattern, of course, was around for a long time before the World's Columbian Exposition. Light Brahmas, which were admitted to THE AMERICAN STANDARD OF PERFECTION in 1874, bear the Columbian color pattern. Light Brahmas are known, as we all know, as Light Brahmas and not as Columbian Brahmas. Similarly, Buff Brahmas, which were recognized by the APA in 1924, are known as Buff Brahmas, and not as Buff Columbian Brahmas.

But all other breeds and varieties of poultry (with the exception of the bantam and standard Light Sussex) that bear the Columbian color pattern are identified as either Columbian or Buff Columbian.

The Columbian color pattern is officially recognized for the following breeds of bantams: Wyandottes,

Antwerp Belgians, Cochins, S. C. Leghorns, R. C. Leghorns, Rosecombs, Cornish, Old English Games, Plymouth Rocks and Light Sussex (same as Columbian color pattern but male has white saddle).

The Columbian color pattern is recognized for the following breeds of standards: Light Brahmas, Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, S. C. Leghorns, and Light Sussex (same as Columbian color pattern but male has white saddle). The Buff Columbian color pattern is officially recognized for only one breed of standards: Buff Brahmas.

In addition to the descriptions of the Columbian and Buff Columbian color patterns that are found in the APA's THE AMERICAN STANDARD OF PERFECTION and the ABA's THE BANTAM STANDARD, the reader should consult two recent articles by Bob Arbuckle in the APA's FANCY FEATHERS APA NEWS AND VIEWS: "Surface and Undercolor in Buff Brahmas," Summer 1989, p. 12; "The Buff Columbian dialog, several months later," Spring 1990, p. 9.

Since it was 100 years ago this May that Columbian Wyandottes were first exhibited, wouldn't it be a good idea for individuals and clubs to sponsor specials at this year's shows for "Best Columbian" and "Best Buff Columbian" in both bantams and standards? Wouldn't that be a highly appropriate manner for the exhibition poultry fraternity to honor those breeders who created the Columbian and Buff Columbian color patterns? Wouldn't that be an entirely fitting way, at the same time, for the poultry fanciers of America to commemorate the 500th anniversary of the discovery of America?

ADDRESS CORRECTION REQUESTED

During the six Sundays of Lent we are having our Attendance Watch. At the end of this sacred season, we will recognize those with perfect attendance

What better way is there to show our loyalty to Christ and our Church then to come and worship in God's House during this time?

MEMBERSHIP CLASS

This Sunday we shall continue our Church Membership classes which meet during the Sunday School hour at 9:45.

The class is for those who are considering their relationship to Christ and the Church. The theme of the sessions is "The New Disciple". PASTOR WILSON will be teaching the group.

Here is a good chance for you to think about the Christian way and the meaning of life.

IN MEMORIAM: EVAN COLES

MR. EVAN COLES who had been a member of Berean Church longer than any other, passed away on February 19, at the home of his son, DONALD, in Northridge, California.

Born in Wales, Evan joined our Church almost 80 years ago, April 18, 1914 to be exact.

Blessed with a beautiful voice, Evan sang in our choir and in a quartet for many years. He also served for many years on the Board of Trustees.

His funeral service was held in the church on February 25 conducted by Pastor Wilson. The choir brought special Welsh music.

We extend our sincere sympathy to his daughter, JUNE BOOTH; son, DONALD, and all his family and friends.

Dear John—

Soon I will have boxes of chicks on and under the dining room table, in the back seat of the car, as well as in every available cage and coop up at the barn!

"Reason", of course, tells me that it's time to turn off the incubator, but, then, should one be reasonable, especially when it comes to poultry? Probably not.

I've never had a better year for hatching: I have 25 chicks from that "extra special" R.C. Rhode Island Red standard cockerel and a couple of equally impressive pullets; also 25 standard B.B. Red Modern Game chicks; also Golden Campines and Banded Rocks and some prize winning B.B. Red American Game bantams from that B. B. Red O. E. ♀ pullet that I got from you at Mumford; she was mated to my best American Game cockerel. Most of the chicks are females and it looks like their size & color are going to be what I was after — and they have the blue legs that B. B. Red American Games are supposed to have. I am very pleased.

If it were up to me to perpetuate the modern Game bantam, the breed would soon become extinct.

Usually I can get hens to lay like production birds — but not the modern Game bantams.

Although those two Black pullets that I got from you are just now starting to lay and three of the four eggs I put in the incubator on $3\frac{1}{2}$ are fertile. 1822-3.

The avian influenza "scare" in Pennsylvania is very annoying. I'm sure that it's not the exhibition breeders who are at fault — but the production breeders. As you know, the Berks Show and the Sussex Show have both been cancelled. I hope that this "scare" doesn't wipe out the Spring show season.

Yes, Dan Bristol will be missed. I clerked for him a few times and that was a wonderful learning experience. I am very glad that I put up a "special" in his honor at Cobleskill last Fall and that he attended the show.

Come to think of it, maybe I should hatch just a few more chicks!

Best regards,
Robert

1823

3/10/93 - 7:20 P.M. "Reason" tells me that it is time to stop hatching chicks for the season. As of this morning, there were 71 chicks:

9	B.B. Red American Game fantails
25	" " " Modern Game standards
22	R.C. Rhode Island Red "
3	Barred Rock standards
10	" Wyandotte standards
2	Golden Campine "
<hr/> 71

I am very pleased with the hatching results for the year: the percentage of fertility has been very high and there have not been many dead embryos. A half dozen eggs are due out today and it looks like there will be 3 more R.C. R.I.R. and a "Barred" Wyandotte - which will bring the total to 75. Eight eggs are due to hatch on 3/17; 14 more on 3/23; and I put 24 eggs in the incubator yesterday. I am running out of space to adequately house the chicks, which means that it's time to stop. I'm sure that I have more young birds than I do old birds — and then I will get 25 standard Black orpingtons in April from Cecil Moore.

1894 2.

And think about it, I believe that this year has been my best hatching year ever. The standard Modern Game and Rhode Island Red success are very heart-warming. I can hardly wait to see how the chicks turn out. I am very optimistic.

There are still some chicks that I want to hatch and will do so if the hens lay. Notably, the B.B. Red Malay and the two excellent standard Game Rock hens. The Malay hen is "under the weather" but the young

Malay male is in top form. If only the Malay hen would snap out of "it" and come into production. I have been pampering her, but she has not definitively "turned the corner."

no thing that I must start doing is to de-accent some of the un-needed old birds, surtout the extra males. I need their cages for young chicks. As soon as the weather "breaks," I will move some of the extra males out to the coops by the Tippler loft. I may even house some of the bantams in the Tippler loft. Why not. The pigeons won't mind - and I could use the space.

3/13/93 - 4:15 P.M. Another menacing winter storm is upon us, and the media are calling it the worst of the Century. Apparently the front of the storm is now more or less at Allentown and moving North - several inches of snow are supposed to fall per hour for the next several hours and there are already no less than 12" of new snow on the ground. The menacing aspect of the storm is the wind: 50 m.p.h. and stronger for the next couple days. I worry about roofs being blown off and trees over & especially about power lines being knocked out, since I have the incubator full of eggs at present: there are 46 eggs in all: eight of which are due to hatch on their coming Wednesday. I am thinking very positive and trying to be optimistic & am hoping that the power lines are ^{not} knocked out. I am not 1827 2.

exactly sure what I will do if the power goes off, but I will do everything in my power to keep the embryos alive. I will not, of course, open the incubator
but I will do what I can to keep the eggs warm. If it comes to my holding them against my body, I will do so. Eight eggs would be easy.
But let's hope that it doesn't come to that. That would be a last resort.

The storm is bizarre: ⁵⁰ tornadoes
in Florida; thunder in allentown during the blizzard; and the high winds. All is well up at the barn: the windows are all secured against the storm.

I am listening to the Rachmaninov Piano Concerto
No. 2 in a performance by Thomas
Vasari & the LSO under Aronovich.

and in listening to the music,
I am trying not to think about the storm. The Rachmaninoff is not completely erasing the storm but it is helping. The worst of the storm will be over by midnight, apparently, which is about 7 hours away. Seven hours, in the grand scheme of things, is not very long, to be sure, but I will be very relieved when "the worst" is over.

5 P.M. — Janice (Glaser) Carter just phoned from Indiana to tell me that she has just spoken with Tim in England. Janice is always in a cheerful mood
and her call was well-timed
on this menacing winter day.

1829

3/14/93 - 10 A.M. The storm has passed and we made it through in fine shape. Thank God the power didn't go off and I did not have to put into operation emergency incubator procedures. The storm appears to have turned out to sea; after the Chesapeake Bay, it was then reported east of Atlantic City and so I guess the brunt of the storm didn't penetrate inland - surtout the winds. The snow did. We got about 24," although it is hard to tell because of the very large and deep drifts. Several hours will have to be devoted to snow removal this afternoon, I suppose. That's fine - I am so grateful that there was not a power failure that I

1936 2.

will be able to deal cheerfully
with a couple feet of snow in the driveway. All was well up at the barn. Since most of the wind last night and yesterday was from the North and West, the chicken area did not get too much punishment. Again, what a blessing! I was greeted by lots of singing and crowing when I "plowed" through the snow carrying two pails of water. Egg laying was proceeding on schedule.
already today, a single Comb
Red egg and the old standard Barned Rock hen is now in a nest
box; also the production White Wyandotte that is being experimentally mated both to a show White Wyandotte and to a "not-so-wonderful" show Banded Rock. I am hoping for some "white" or "Columbian" Wyandottes, but none yet; only

"Banded" Wyandottes — whose barring
will surely not be very good (the father is not good on "barring" but has good type). But the Chicks are little horses and are as vigorous as one could hope for. To date, there are 74 Chicks out and about, all breeds and varieties considered. That number is an adjusted running total — one or two Chicks have died, which is not, surely, unusual or anything to worry about. As hard as I am "trying" not to hatch out any more Chicks, I continue to work very hard

1832 to do so. There are 22 fertile eggs 4.

in the incubator due out as follows:

3/17 - RIR - 4
Campine - 4

Campine - 2

Mg - ftm - 3

and 24 eggs in the incubator that I have not yet candled; they were put in on 3/9; and I have a good supply (maybe 12 to 15) in holding down cellar. What I wish is that the "special" hen would stop laying — that way I would be forced into calling a halt to "egg saving." It seems ironic that I should be about ready to call a halt to the breeding season when Spring is imminent — this coming ^{20th} Saturday is apparently the first day of Spring.

Tim —

Yes, you did send me a copy of "Constitution and Fly Rules" that I proofread several years ago. The corrections (exclusively typographical and editorial) can be incorporated in the next revision — and it appears that a revision may be made this year to incorporate M. Beat's proposals.

Stanley O. phoned Jerry O'Rourke and said that he (Stan) did not want to serve as Publicity Director; he said he didn't think he could do the job.

I am not opposed to M. Beat's "4 season" approach to the fly schedule. But I do think that three^{or} four flies per season is enough. Twenty "flies" per year is too many.

M. Beat's third proposal seems sound: augment the existing fly schedule with fly in the

Poultry farmers urged to take precautions

Avian influenza cases on the rise

UNIVERSITY PARK — Poultry producers should take steps to reduce the risk of introducing avian influenza virus into their flocks, says a veterinarian in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Antibodies for the H5N2 strain of avian influenza (AI) were found in avian samples from a Montgomery County turkey flock in December. "Since then, birds with the antibodies have been found on fewer than 10 premises, including one Philadelphia live-bird market and one flock that sent birds to the Farm Show," says Dr. Patricia Dunn, a field investigator in Penn State's Poultry Diagnostic Laboratory.

"This is not an outbreak of clinical AI," Dunn stresses. "A positive blood test only indicates that a bird has been exposed to the virus in the past weeks or months. It doesn't necessarily indicate active infection but does give reason for caution."

Clinical AI is highly infectious in chickens, turkeys and other poultry, as well as game and wild birds important for recreational hunting and wildlife management. The virus poses no health threat to humans.

"Live H5N2 virus has been isolated from only one Philadelphia live-bird market," Dunn says. "We've found no other evidence in Pennsylvania so far, but live virus has been isolated at eight bird markets in New York and five in New Jersey. This shows that the virus is circulating in the live-bird market system in the mid-Atlantic region."

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has issued two quarantine orders. A general quarantine suspends all exhibitions of poultry in Pennsylvania and transportation of live birds to animal markets other than recognized slaughter establishments until further notice.

A stricter quarantine aims to prevent the spread of influenza from flocks exposed to the virus or connected to virus-positive live-bird markets in anyway. "This special quarantine also affects all Pennsylvania live-bird markets and all flocks with evidence of H5N2 antibodies," Dunn says. "Birds from these flocks may not be moved without a special permit from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. These flocks will be released from the special quarantine only after thorough testing to assure that the virus is not present."

The H5N2 virus isolated from the Philadelphia live-bird market has not yet proven to be harmful. "So far, infection has resulted in no clinical disease, but epidemiologists and diagnosticians are concerned that a more destructive variant may emerge," Dunn says. "Highly pathogenic strains of AI can strike and spread quickly."

A major AI outbreak in 1983 and 1984 resulted in the destruction of 17 million birds in Pennsylvania.

Maryland, New Jersey and Virginia. That eradication effort cost nearly $65 million and presaged a rise in poultry prices by about $349 million in six months, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture. Pennsylvania had the largest number of flocks destroyed in this outbreak.

What can poultry producers do to minimize the risks of introducing H5N2 avian influenza into their flocks? "Tighten your biosecurity and sanitation procedures," Dunn advises. "Sanitize all vehicles, tires and equipment. Clean and disinfect poultry houses before bringing in new birds."

It's also important to control the movement of all poultry, equipment and vehicles to prevent farm-to-farm contact that could spread the virus. "Avoid any contact with live-bird markets," Dunn says. "Permit only essential workers and vehicles to enter the farm, and be sure to clean a truck that has visited another farm or slaughter facility."

Flocks also should be protected from contact with wild or migratory birds.

Poultry producers should watch their birds for symptoms and contact a diagnostic laboratory if suspicious illness or unusual mortality occurs. "Poultry infected with a pathogenic AI strain may have swelling, black or purple discoloration of the wattles and combs, diarrhea, loss of coordination and lack of energy and appetite, followed by death," Dunn says. "Milder strains can cause respiratory symptoms and decrease in egg production."

The following laboratories can arrange for submission of birds or blood samples:

— PDA Laboratory, Summerdale (717) 787-8808.

— New Bolton Center, Kennett Square (215) 444-4282.

3/19/93 - 10:15 A.M. If I were Milton or Tennyson or one of the immortal poetic worthies, I would now pen an ode, but I am not, and so I will simply say that the better of my two Rose Comb Rhode Island Red hens died during the night. I could see it coming yesterday afternoon. The cause of death was not any disease. Rather it was some major internal mis-function, probably related to egg-laying. Both hens have been laying very well for many many weeks; there are 27 beautiful little RIRs so far from the two hens and 9 more fertile eggs in the incubator, plus about a dozen eggs down cellar that are ready to be put to incubation. Yesterday I could see that she was undergoing great physical stress: she could not stand up and there was quite a mess coming out of her.

Did an egg break in the oviduct?
Did something get all twisted up?
I think so. It's a shame that after having done such a good job of laying over such a long period
that she should die now - when the hatching season is virtually over. I'm glad that she did not suffer over a long period of time and waste away and die slowly and miserably. Last night I held her up to the water dish and she took 10 long and deep drinks. I then put her in the nest and she settled in nicely and that was that. This morning she was dead. She could just as easily have been standing up

1895 3.
and singing. She had a good life,
to be sure. She was probably hatched last winter in Minnesota. I bought her for $25 from Adrian Rademacher
at the Ohio National in November of last year, when she was just starting to lay. For the five months that I had her, she was looked after with vast quantities of tender, loving care.

It's sad. Not so much that she died, but when she died.

After having done her job so beautifully (laying lots of fertile eggs) she could have "relaxed" for five more years
and never have laid another egg and I would have looked after her with the same

tender loving care. Her death is sad in the same way that the death of a soldier - who fought the good fight but who died ^{or was killed} after victory had been declared / the battle had been won - would be sad. There is, of course, nothing that you can do or say in such a situation to make things better. You bury the dead and you keep on going. The sadness goes away eventually and you re-dedicate yourself to life
and you make every minute count.

Dear Robert,

It must be nice in having so many chicks at this time of year. I spend most of my time knitting sweaters for my birds, just so they can make it thru our cold nights. Last night it was 15 below zero, with a wind chill of 30 below. The only eggs I see have wide cracks in them from the cold. We spent last weekend having the storm of the century. The total snow fall for one day was 42 inches, with drifts of 7 to 8 feet high. Under all that snow were some outside pens. I had to wade or crawl thru it to the pens. When I got there I had the problem of finding them. It took a long pole to locate them and then the work of shoveling down to them. We had to cut holes in top of a couple of pens to get the birds out.

Most of this past winter I have been shoveling the driveway. But it just was to deep to ever get it done by hand. So I was time to get someone with a plow. After finding someone I then turned down a passing farmer with his tractor and bucket. He wanted 25 dollars to do it but I told him I already had someone coming. My plow person came the next morning at 3:30 AM and only charged me 45 dollars. What a deal I got for waiting one more day. After that good deal we still can barely make it us to the garage.

I did a modern game census today. I have 19 young birds 10 cockrells and 9 pullets. Out of those I have may have one good one. At least 18 of them don't have black legs. I am hoping the hens will be laying soon, but this time I'm changing to a male that I have instead of using the male from Truman Stone. The young black wyandottes I have look more like wyandottes are suppose to.

Will you please let me know if there is any more information about the avian influenza. Have you heard if the Blumberg show is still on? John Pierce and I are planning on coming down to it. Hope you don't run out of space in your car trunk. Remember enough it not enough.

Dear John —

Such fancy name cards! Very nice. I am very pleased to see that you raise "Standard" Modern and not "Large Fowl" Moderns.

Well, the news of the day is that there are now two more bantam Black Modern Games in the world. Two of the three eggs in the incubator hatched last night — along with some standard Campenies, RIR's, Wyandottes and Modern Games.

One of the Black Moderns has very nice black legs & toes; the other has middle toes that are about half white. The one with the solid Black legs & toes appears to have excellent "station" and will immediately be placed in training.

for the show pen. Two more fertile².
Black Modern eggs are due to hatch on 3/30. and I put 6 more eggs in the incubator on 3/21.

Enclosed is an article from the Farmer's Friend on the avian influenza. It's mostly in the Philadelphia area I think; someone told me (don't quote me) that Rev. Romig's birds have it. I am not optimistic that the Bloomsburg Show (Central PA.
Avian Club) will be allowed to take place.

Do you have a 1991 ABA Yearbook?
I don't, and neither does anyone near me, and I would like to get a copy of the article therein on Crele Modern Game Bantams. If you have that yearbook and could send me a copy of that article, I would be very grateful.

We only had about 2 feet of snow, with drifts 3 to 4 feet high, so I guess we were lucky. Throughout the storm
I sat nervously by the incubator and worried about a power failure. We never had one, mercifully, but I now have one or two more gray hairs.

Best regards,

S. Robert

3/23/93 - 1:10 PM Enfin, a standard White Wyandotte Chick! The mother is a very substantial production-type standard White Wyandotte; the father is very superb exhibition-type standard White Wyandotte; he has a wonderful head, good yellow legs, a very good U-shaped back. His only "fault" is the fact that his main tail feathers are not as stiff and straight as they should be - which is a common fault with exhibition Wyandottes. I mated him with the "substantial" production-type standard White Wyandotte hen for several reasons:

1. to get ^{birds} Chicks with better tails
2. to get new blood into the exhibition line
3. to increase the size of the exhibition birds

1853 2.
I am very optimistic. Both parents have wonderful qualities.
A lot of those positive qualities are fused in the Chick from the mating, I will have some excellent birds. The hen does not have good show-type, by any means. But she is a pure-blooded standard White Wyandotte and she has a very good head, perfect yellow legs and snowy white plumage. Her back is too long & flat; the male's back is almost too short. Well, we shall see. The Chick that just now newly hatched
in the incubator is very vigorous,
which is not at all surprising
because of the fusion of the two completely un-related blood lines. There is another White Wyandotte ^{in the incubator} egg, that is due 1854 3.

to hatch on 3/30; and I put 9 others
in the incubator on 3/21, so there may be more "improved" White Wyandottes of the "Dreadnought" strain on the way. (The hen is such a large bulk of a hen and so head-strong that I have taken to referring her as "the Dreadnought", after the famous English battleship.). There are 12 other assorted eggs in the incubator
that are also due to hatch today, including three fantom Black Modern Games.

Yesterday, PSU asked me to teach Humanities I during the first Summer session: 5/24-7/21. I am delighted, enchanted, ravi;
the Spring session ends 4/30/93.

253-2789 1935

3/23/93-6:45 P.M. Mark Klinkiewicz & his son Brian came by on Sunday, 3/21, and we had a grand poultry visit. They brought with them a beautiful standard Partridge Plymouth Rock Cockerel that they got from Jerry & Arlene Sliker last fall. They got a trio, I guess, and both hens are now dead, one on the day after they got her and the other from a cause unknown to me. They have been having predator problems so maybe that is the cause. At any rate, I called him on Saturday night to return his (Mark's) call to me of Saturday morning. I was up at the barn at the time. Mark wanted to get some Partridge Rock chicks or eggs from me and I explained that I didn't have a rooster.

1856 2.

He explained that he had the Slicker bird. I said that we could both get some eggs and chicks if I could borrow the rooster for a while. He agreed, and they brought the rooster
over on Sunday at 9 A.M. What a grand visit we had. I had to cut it short at about 11:30 A.M.
because I had to go into town
and pick up the money at the Baptist Church. Brian was very excited about everything to saw up at the barn; so was his father. I think Mark was somewhat surprised by the limited space in which I house
my poultry wored. Since Mark raises beef cattle,

1857

3.

he is accustomed to large space
for his animals. at present, I do not have that luxury
one day I will. This summer
I will solve my poultry housing problem, either by constructing a "building" in the downstairs of the barn or else outside. I am not sure yet, even though I have been trying to make that decision for at least six months now.

It will take about a week,
at least, for fertile eggs to be produced by the Partridge Rocks.
Both of my pullets are laying well and the visiting rooster
is a strapping young thing, so I don't think that there will be a problem in getting fertile 1858 4.

eggs. I only have the three female Partridge Rocks: the old hen and her two daughters.
The old hen is no longer laying—
she must be at least 4 years old.
The breeding trio of Standard Partridge Plymouth Rocks are housed in the extra large pen in which the Rhode Island Reds were housed all winter. The Reds have moved down one cage, to a large cage but not as large as the pen in which they were housed all winter and in which they produced so many fertile eggs. I believe that I will save for incubation their eggs starting this coming Saturday or Sunday. With the best possible luck they will

1859 S.

be fertile. I "arranged" one successful copulation this afternoon and hope that other successful matings have already taken place. all members of the trio were given a Vitamin B-12 pill this afternoon and that should put their libidos in high gear.

Their diet has, of course, been supplemented with extra protein and Cod Liver oil. I am very optimistic about the possibilities of the mating. The Slicker

Cockerel has wonderful size & color. His color is better than that of my males — and the best part of it all is that it is a completely unrelated blood line. I could not have found a better Cockerel anywhere, and 1860 6.

Without my doing any searching,
he (the Cockerel) comes my way.
Mark & I will share the eggs.
I will put six or eight in the incubator rather soon, maybe as early as the end of March (8 days away) and see about fertility.
Both pullets laid today. With two pullets laying, we should be able to get a dozen eggs per week. The Cockerel's comb has been frost bitten a little and that will affect fertility, although the frost bite was not severe and it is now largely healed. We shall see. I am virtually certain that Mark and I will both be able to get all the standard Partridge
Rock that we want this Spring.

3/24/93 1861

Dear Bart—

"Leg Placement," "Wing Carriage,"
"Conditioning in the Breeding Pen,"
and "Let's Take Feed" are wonderful.
We all need all the help we can get in evaluating our birds
and articles like the first three of your recent four articles in Poultry Press provide that much-needed help that most of us need. And in that same vein, your Wyandotte
seminar at the Anderson All Breed Bantam Club show was, so I read, a grand success. Your energy and enthusiasm must be the source of a lot of pleasure, and very rewarding, at the same time, for those who 1862 2.

Know you and whose lives come into contact with you on a regular basis.

at present, I am up to my ears in chicks - which is wonderful - and I am having a grand time. I have never had a better year for fertility and hatchability. To date, I have 30 chicks from my best trio of standard Rose Comb Rhode Island Reds and 27 chicks from my best trio of standard B. B. Red Modern Game; also about 30 other chicks (standard Golden Campiner, bantam B. B. Red American Game, and some "experimental" chicks). One of the "breed improvement programme" I am working on is focused on standard Barred Rocks — I am trying to develop a strain that have long backs and stiff tail feathers (especially the males) and that look like standard Rocks and not like the clean-legged cockin that many people seem to think are Barred Rocks. I am also trying to get some standard White Wyandottes with good stiff — and straight — tail feathers. The first of the "new and improved" (hopefully) standard white Wyandottes hatched yesterday, and I can hardly wait to see how they turn out. Everything looks very promising so far.

1864 4.

Enclosed is a draft of an article that I am working on, entitled "Naming the Winners." I would very much appreciate it if you would read the article and tell me where revisions and/or corrections/amplifications are desirable or necessary.

Sometimes, as you know, people get carried away with imprecise, inaccurate or greatly over-amplified terminology at poetry shows. The best Silver Sebright (BV) at an ordinary APA/ABA poetry show, for example, suddenly becomes the "Super Grand Champion Silver Sebright of the Show" even though that same bird didn't even go on to become Best of Show.

Breed, ^{or receive any special award at the} it's nice to have the best silver sebright in a show,
and it's great to be enthusiastic,
but it is a bit much, I think,
to call, for example, the
best silver sebright in a show
the "Super Grand Champion Silver Sebright of the Show." It's that kind of excess that this article ("Naming the Winner") is attempting to correct. As I say, your comments will be much appreciated.

Sincerely,
Robert Powell

NAMING THE WINNERS

By S. Robert Powell

Carbondale, PA 18407-9706

Very specific and meaningful terminology has been developed and codified over a great many years for naming the winning birds in most poultry shows.

The best bird in each of the varieties of a breed is called "Best of Variety." BV is how most judges mark the coop tags. The best bantam Black Cochin in a show, for example, regardless of age and gender, is named "Best of Variety." The second best bantam Black Cochin is named "Reserve of Variety" or "RV." Technically speaking, the terms "Champion" and "Reserve Champion" should not be used to refer to the best and second best birds, respectively, in a variety, unless, of course, those winners are to be honored in some special way by a particular club or by the show itself.

Moving up the awards' ladder, the best bantam Cochin, for example, in a show, all varieties of bantam Cochins competing, is named the "Best of Breed." BB is how most judges mark the coop tags. The second best bantam Cochin in a show is named the "Reserve of Breed" or "RB." Technically speaking, the terms "Champion" and "Reserve Champion" should not be used to refer to the best and second best birds, respectively, in a breed, unless, of course, those winners are to be honored in some special way by a particular club or by the show itself.

In most APA/ABA-sanctioned poultry shows, one can expect classes for all varieties and breeds of standard chickens (APA: American, Asiatic, English, Mediterranean, Continental, All Other Standard Breeds), bantams (ABA: Modern Games, Old English and American Games, Single Comb Clean-Legged, Rose Comb Clean-Legged, Feather-Legged, All Other Combs Clean-Legged, Bantam Ducks), ducks (APA: Heavy, Medium, Light, Bantam), geese (APA: Heavy, Medium, Light), and turkeys (APA: all classed together). The champion or best bird in each of those classes (Rose Comb Clean-Legged, for example) is correctly referred to as the class champion (Champion Rose Comb Clean-Legged, Champion Asiatic, Champion Heavy Duck, Champion Light Goose, and so on).

The second best bird in each of those classes is correctly referred to as the reserve champion (Reserve Champion English, Reserve Champion Old English and American Game, Reserve Champion Light Duck, and so on). Please note that it is "Reserve Champion" and not "Reserved Champion." "Reserved" means "restrained in words and/or actions." In poultry circles and elsewhere, the adjective "reserve" means "second place." True, "reserve champions" do usually conduct themselves in a "reserved" manner but, for all that, they should not be called "reserved champions" unless, of course, one is contrasting them to "un-reserved" (out of control) champions.

There are five primary groupings or divisions of poultry at most poultry shows: standard chickens, bantam chickens, ducks, geese, turkeys. - The best standard chicken in a show is the "Champion Standard," the best goose in a show is the "Champion Goose," and so on, for each of the five primary poultry groupings. The second best bird in each of the five primary poultry groupings listed above is properly referred to as, for example, the "Reserve Champion Standard."

In most poultry shows, there is one champion for each of the five primary poultry groupings or divisions: Champion Standard, Champion Bantam, Champion Duck, Champion Goose, Champion Turkey. A "Champion Waterfowl" is sometimes selected. The overall or first champion, chosen from among all the champions for the five primary groupings, is the "Grand Champion of the Show." If the second best bird in the show were to be selected, it would be called the "Reserve Champion of the Show." It is important to understand that the adjectives "grand" (meaning "first") and "reserve" (meaning "second") should not be used to modify the same noun. To say, "Reserve Grand Champion Bantam," for example, is incorrect. The correct term to describe that bird would be "Reserve Champion Bantam."

At the larger poultry shows, where bantam and standard trios are shown, a special award might be given to the best young and old trios in a variety, breed and class: Champion Old Standard Partridge Plymouth Rock Trio, Champion Young Sebright Trio, Champion Old Asiatic Trio, for example. At such shows, one might also expect to see an award presented to the Champion Bantam Trio, the Reserve Champion Bantam Trio, the Champion Standard Trio, and the Reserve Champion Standard Trio. Similarly, one might expect to see an award presented to the Champion Trio of the Show and to the Reserve Champion Trio of the Show.

The same is true for display awards at the larger APA-sanctioned shows. (The ABA has no awards for displays.) One might see an award presented to the Champion Display and Reserve Champion Display in many varieties and breeds in both bantam and standard chickens as well as in each of the three other primary poultry groupings: ducks, geese, turkeys. For example: Champion White Call Duck Display, Reserve Champion Goose Display, Champion Turkey Display. A Champion and Reserve Champion Waterfowl Display might also be selected, as well as a Champion and Reserve Champion Display of the Show.

Those are the basic designations that are needed to describe the winning birds in most poultry shows. Specific additional award designations to accomodate the requirements of a poultry club or organization are entirely possible, as we have pointed out above. In those instances virtually any award title or name that is deemed appropriate by the club or organization in question is a possibility.

The central point of this article is this: very specific and meaningful terminology has been developed and codified over the course of a great many years for naming the winning birds in most poultry shows. Let's all do our best to use that terminology and to speak, as it were, the same language.

Dear Robert;

Thank You for your letter. I don't pretend to be an expert, when it comes to writing, but I do feel a need for informative articles in the Poultry Press.

I look forward to reading your articles in P. Press, they seem to "hit home" with me. Your "Naming the Winners" article is about a subject that has bothered me for quite awhile. Sometimes when I read P. Press I have trouble trying to figure out what actually won what. We've said exactly what you wrote in your letter, "it's great to be enthusiastic, but it is a bit much."

I thought "Naming the Winners" was a well written article. I enjoyed it and agreed with it.

Thank You and please keep writing.

Sincerely,
Bob Pal

Dear Robert,

It was good to hear that you have two additional black moderns in the world. I have hatched out 20 so far but they all have slate colored legs. They have started laying again so I now will use one of my own males from last years hatch. Maybe this time I will get some with darker legs. Have you ever seen Kane's black moderns? His birds have the correct color legs and are of the best type. There is no way of winning if you are competing against them.

I have been looking all over for a copy of that article you wanted from the 1991 ABA yearbook. I have a 1990 and a 1992 edition but no 1991. Its hard to believe anyone spent time writing a article about crele moderns. If you are interested I have information about making crele old english. The results should be the same.

Now that most of the snow is gone we are going thru the mud phase. We have a stream of water running between the buildings. It will be great if the sun ever comes out.

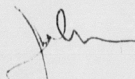

I would like to thank you for the AI article. I have passed it on to Paul Jones. It looks like the Bloomsburg show is on.

If you want I have a plan to turn your car glove compartment into egg incubator. Then when there larger you could make a brooder out of your car trunk. Because I know you the plans would be free.

Now on the more serious side, could you some time write us a poultry article we use in our club newsletter. I know how well you write. So any subject would be fine. As you can tell I'm not the person to write it.

At this time I have about 70 eggs in the incubator. Most of them are Bill Ehlers barred rocks. I do have a few eggs mixed in with his. John Pierce and I have a few crele OE but all eggs so are havn't been fertile. We are going to change males and try again. I'm hoping when I can put some of the birds out on the ground more of the eggs will be fertile.

Keepin hatching,

During the 1920's, the New York State Fair published a detailed booklet listing all exhibitors and their owners. While scanning one of these, I noticed under Golden Spangled Hamburgs, one Daniel C. Bristol. While it is not intended that these columns eulogize our departed friends of the fancy, it is difficult ignore the passing of Dan Bristol.

Upon receiving the news of Dan's passing from fellow judge Ralph Morey, I could not help but recall the many memorable shows that I attended that Dan was a part. It must have been during the 1970's that I attended my first Cobleskill, New York show. It was there that two tall authoritative figures with western attire entered the building. Their sartorial eloquence revealed them to be two of the judges. Both men methodically performed their judging assignments in a thorough professional manner. It was evident that they were held in high esteem by the exhibitors present. This was the first of many occasions that I would see Dan Bristol and Art Schallenberg judge, as they were a popular team for many years throughout the Northeastern U.S. I always found Dan to be attentive and helpful. He was more than willing to share his immense knowledge with the younger generation.

As evidenced by the State Fair booklet, Dan literally grew up with the fancy, growing as it grew, and learning as it learned. During his 90 years he shared his life with many of the all time greats and witnessed the halcyon days we all hear the old timers talk about. During my judging apprenticeship in 1980, I learned that Dan was assigned to give me my exam in Albany, New York. I will always remember how he made me feel at ease when he handed me that test. All my apprehension dissolved in Dan's presence.

As he sat quietly like a grandfather figure in that hotel room, I successfully completed my written portion of the test. Upon returning the questionnaire, he reminded me to get a good night's sleep, for we would be up extra early the next morning to complete the showroom portion. Before the show reopened.

The following morning as we entered the hall, Dan recalled his own test many years before under Arthur Schilling himself. Knowing the legacy that preceded me I was even more determined to do my very best.

In losing Dan, the fancy has lost yet another of its great ones. But on the brighter side, it can be said that Dan Bristol did his best at what he did, and passed on much of his knowledge to a new generation of fanciers who will carry on his life's work.

FROM THE SECRETARY

If you don't

and still don't

with a pair of standard
adults out there,

The UOC is that is part of dropped after this
We need to

will be in the October ALL-ORP so we can get the results back and have the new slate of officers announced in the January issue. All of the current Officers will be put on the ballot automatically unless they notify me in writing that they don't want to serve. Any one else that wants to serve can do so by notifying me they want to be on the ballot. If any member sends in a candidate be sure they are willing to serve before you nominate them. I will be a candidate for Secretary Treasurer for another two years. But, it won't hurt my feelings if some one else runs and beats me out. This job really should belong to someone in the Midwest or Eastern part of the Country. That is where most of the members are.

I have had some contact with John Monaco, our State Representative for California about our next National Meet. It will be in Roseville, California in January of 1994. The Club will offer cash awards for the best Orp in each of the four varieties. John has pledged an award for the best Standard White Buff and Blue. I will give an award for the best Bantam Orp. We will have the J. Ralph Brazelton Trophy for the best Orp Display and a Plaque for the best Orp by a Jr member. All awards are for UOC members only. We had some folks that won at Columbus that were not members of the club so our awards went to the reserve winners. It would make our National meet a lot more meaningful if some of the other members would offer some other awards, for trios, reserves, best cock, hen cockerel, pullet, or any other that you may think of.

We have received requests for Orpington meets again this year. I have referred them to the State or District folks. So far the following have been awarded: Iowa State Meet to the Iowa State Fair, The District 3 Meet will be at Columbus again, The Wisconsin State Meet will be with the Badger Poultry Club at Richland Center, WI the last weekend in June. I have more requests here on my desk that I will answer as soon as the ALL-ORP is mailed.

ARE YOUR DUES PAID:

We have 13 members, that joined the Club before March 31 1992, and have not renewed their membership. If you are one of these folks this will be your last ALL-ORP and your name will be removed from membership. With the increased cost of every thing the Club does it is just a matter of time before we will have to increase the Dues. It is interesting in the letter from Wilson Field III the dues were only $2.00 a YEAR in 1968.

My records show that:

Your Dues are paid for 1993

Your Dues are Paid until July 1993 ()

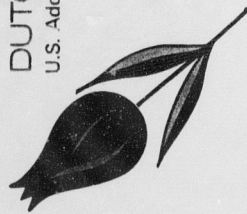

Your Dues are NOT Paid for 1993 ()

If you do not agree with my record keeping Please contact me. I make mistakes all the time.

Dear Robert:

Thank you for your letter of Feb 26, 93.

I saw your Rose Comb Red CK1
at Columbus and all the other.
I still like his head over the other. I would love to have a Comb like this on my S.C Red Body.

I have order for about 20 dozen eggs & 50 chicks. Buy the ad in the poultry press. S.C. Red Bull. However I would love to swap you say 1 or 2 dozen
S.C. Eggs for your Rose Comb eggs.

Maybe in a month or so after you hatch some chicks from your Rose Comb. If you could send me some. A dozen or 18 eggs is all I need. I just need the gene from your CK1. I'll do the rest over 3 to 5 yrs.

Many of us in the Rhode Island Red Movement are trying to put together a RI Red Year book.

1906

We need some articles from breeders.

Would you be interested in writing something? You have written some excellent articles in the past few years I would love to put something from you in our year book.

I hope to print it in 1994.

① article that you may be a expert on & that is being hatching broody hen to raise your chicks, also Chicken Coops & Buildings for cold weather climate.

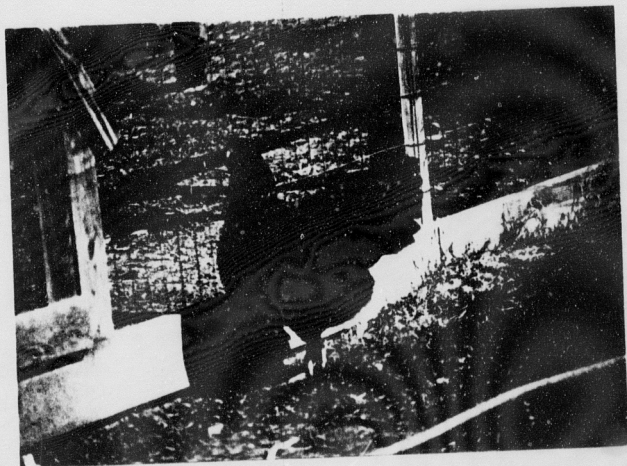

Any way write me a note and an article you may want to write on Bdr for our yearbook.

Also if you want to spare a 12-18 Blue Comb eggs from your Cx1 let me know.

Benefits will also be paid for dependent children who are in the 12th grade on the date of the accident, but who subsequently enroll in an institution of higher education within one year. The Educational Assistance benefit for each student who qualifies is 2% of your Additional Coverage. This benefit would be paid each year the student qualifies after your death, up to a maximum of 4 years. THE MILLE FLEURS VARIETY

By S. Robert Powell

The poultry plumage color MILLE FLEURS is not an easy one to spell or to pronounce.

The name is spelled MILLE FLEURS. It means "a thousand flowers" in French. "Mille" means "a thousand" and "Fleurs" means "flowers". "Mille" is never spelled with a final "s" in French; "Fleurs" takes a final "s" because it is a plural noun.

The pattern name is thought to have been created in the middle of the 15th century in the Loire district in France to describe tapestries and other fabrics with backgrounds that resembled fields that were sown with a thousand flowers. Such tapestries became popular and were produced in many parts of France and the Low Countries until the end of the 16th century.

The pattern name is also used to describe mosaic Venetian glass with a flowerlike pattern. In Italian, such glassware is known as "millefiori" glassware. It was made by fusing together slender rods of colored glass and cutting them transversely and joining the sections or embedding them in clear glass.

The technique of millefiori glassmaking was developed by the Romans in the 1st century B.C. and revived and refined by Venetian glassmakers in the 15th century. Since the mid-19th century, the technique has been used to make paperweights and gaming marbles.

The name MILLE FLEURS is not an easy one to pronounce. A rough approximation in English phonemes might be "MEAL FLUR".

Mille Fleurs, it must be remembered, is a plumage color and not the name of a breed of poultry. There are, for example, Mille Fleurs Rosecombs, Mille Fleurs Leghorn Bantams, and Mille Fleurs Antwerp Belgians.

But, in most cases, when people talk about birds of the Mille Fleurs plumage color, they are talking about Booted Bantams and/or Uccle Belgians. But what is a Booted Bantam and what is an Uccle Belgian?

The answer to that question is far from being cut and dried. Here is a summary account of the information in THE BANTAM

STANDARD (ABA, 1988) and in THE AMERICAN STANDARD OF PERFECTION (APA, 1985) to answer that question.

If, when you talk about Mille Fleurs, you are talking about feather-legged, single-combed non-bearded bantams, you are probably talking about what the APA and ABA agree are to be called Booted Bantams of the Mille Fleurs variety. The ABA, which says that Booted Bantams must be non-bearded, recognizes 10 colors of Booted Bantams: Black, Blue, Buff, Golden Neck, Gray, Mottled, Self-Blue, Mille Fleurs, Porcelain, and White. Only the last three of those varieties have been admitted to the APA'S THE AMERICAN STANDARD OF PERFECTION, wherein they are specifically referred to as Non-Bearded Booted Bantams.

If, on the other hand, you are talking about feather-legged, single-combed, bearded bantams of the Mille Fleurs variety, you are probably talking about Booted Bantams and/or Uccle Belgians and you have, as the matter now stands, your choice of names for those birds. The APA would call such birds Bearded Booted Bantams of the Mille Fleurs variety.

The APA, in other words, maintains that there are two primary variety groups of the breed Booted Bantams: Non-Bearded Booted Bantams and Bearded Booted Bantams. The APA notes that the Bearded Booted Bantams are sometimes called "d'Uccles".

The physical descriptions of the Bearded and the Non-Bearded Booted Bantams, the APA notes, are the same except for differences in the wattles, the neck and in the presence or absence of a beard and muff. The APA recognizes three varieties of Bearded Booted Bantams (Mille Fleurs, Porcelain, White) and three varieties of Non-Bearded Booted Bantams (Mille Fleurs, Porcelain, White).

The ABA, on the other hand, maintains that the non-bearded, feather-legged, single-combed birds and the bearded, feather-legged, single-combed birds, referred to here, represent two different breeds, each with a specific and identifiable type: Booted Bantams (non-bearded, feather-legged, single-combed; taken back to Holland in the 17th century from South China or Burma) and Uccle Belgians (bearded, feather-legged, single-combed; originated in the Belgian city of Uccle in the early 20th century, when Booted Bantams were crossed with Antwerp Belgians).

The central point here is this: When one speaks about birds of the Mille Fleurs plumage color, one must associate that color with a specific breed: Mille Fleurs Leghorn Bantams, Mille Fleurs Booted Bantams, for example. One can not speak of "Millies" and expect others to know what breed you are talking about, any more than one can talk about "Partridge" or "Silver-Penciled" or "Wheaten," for example, and expect others to know what breed of poultry you are talking about.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

DEAR BILL:

Want to thank S. Robert Powell for his excellent article "The Mille Fleur Variety" everything is factual and explains what the name Mille Fleur is.

I would like to expand on his article. In my many years of correspondence with the Dutch Booted Bantam Club, I was sent a copy of their standard on the Booted and d'ucelle. To my surprise they have added from what I determine another variety of Booted. Yes they have the Booted and the d'ucelle but they also have deserved a Bearded Booted. This bird is not to be confused with the d'ucelle at all, because its type is equal with that of the Booted. In appearance, it is a bird as tall as a Booted but with a beard. This beard is not the bull-neck full beard of the d'ucelle. It seems that years back people mistakenly crossed the Booted with the d'ucelle and came up with a bird that was neither. Booted or a d'ucelle. Thus the Bearded Booted was brought into being.

It is my belief the same thing has happened here in the United States. In fact, I think the true d'ucelle is almost non-existent today. What I have been seeing in the showroom is a bird resembling the Bearded Booted than the d'ucelle. The d'ucelle in type should be more close to its cousin, the d'anver than any other breed. In fact almost all your Belgian breeds closely resemble one another in type. Waterucelle, d'anvers, d'ucelle, d'everbury (rumpless), d'grubbe (rumpless), all are along the same type. Short and coby are words that can be used to describe these breeds.

We should be looking at using the d'anver to bring back our d'ucelle. Short back-bull neck d'anvers (in colors you work with of course) should be the number one priority to improve our birds.

They have traced it in France and Holland with great success to help restore the d'ucelle. I don't see why it can't work here too.

Dear Mr. Jarvis,

Thank you very much for your kind words in the April 1993

article on the Mille Fleurs variety.
Your amplification on my article is very interesting. I am always glad to see in writing information
of the kind that you reported in your letter to Bill Wulff
about Bosted Bantams and Mulle Belgians. It would be wonderful if someone were to restore the true Mulle Belgian.

Dear Bill,

The "Mille Fleurs" article in the current issue of Poetry Press is beautiful. Thank you for running it.

Enclosed is an article entitled "The Columbian Variety". Since it was 100 years ago this May that the Columbian color pattern was officially named, the enclosed article would, I think, be very well placed in the May 1993 Poetry Press.

The A-I men is getting me down. All the shows in this part of the country have been cancelled.

THE COLUMBIAN VARIETY

By S. Robert Powell

To commemorate the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America in 1492 by Christopher Columbus, the World's Columbian Exposition, which was dedicated on October 23, 1892 and opened in May, 1893, was held in Chicago.

On display at that gigantic exposition, which covered 666 acres and which was attended by one of every ten Americans, were such wonders as the Pullman car, the linotype machine, the first ferris wheel (which 2,160 people could ride at one time), and COLUMBIAN WYANDOTTES.

From the APA's THE AMERICAN STANDARD OF PERFECTION (p. 47) we learn (1) that this was the first time that Columbian Wyandottes were exhibited, and (2) that that variety was produced by crossing a White Wyandotte with a Barred Plymouth Rock.

The word "Columbian," it is important to remember, is the adjective that refers to "Columbus" or to "the time of Columbus." And so, COLUMBIAN Wyandottes were so named in order to commemorate the fact that they were first exhibited at the exposition that marked the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America.

The Columbian color pattern, of course, was around for a long time before the World's Columbian Exposition. Light Brahmas, which were admitted to THE AMERICAN STANDARD OF PERFECTION in 1874, bear the Columbian color pattern. Light Brahmas are known, as we all know, as Light Brahmas and not as Columbian Brahmas. Similarly, Buff Brahmas, which were recognized by the APA in 1924, are known as Buff Brahmas, and not as Buff Columbian Brahmas.

But all other breeds and varieties of poultry (with the exception of the bantam and standard Light Sussex) that bear the Columbian color pattern are identified as either Columbian or Buff Columbian.

The Columbian color pattern is officially recognized for the following breeds of bantams: Wyandottes,

Antwerp Belgians, Cochins, S. C. Leghorns, R. C. Leghorns, Rosecombs, Cornish, Old English Games, Plymouth Rocks and Light Sussex (same as Columbian color pattern but male has white saddle).

The Columbian color pattern is recognized for the following breeds of standards: Light Brahmas, Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, S. C. Leghorns, and Light Sussex (same as Columbian color pattern but male has white saddle). The Buff Columbian color pattern is officially recognized for only one breed of standards: Buff Brahmas.

In addition to the descriptions of the Columbian and Buff Columbian color patterns that are found in the APA's THE AMERICAN STANDARD OF PERFECTION and the ABA's THE BANTAM STANDARD, the reader should consult two recent articles by Bob Arbuckle in the APA's FANCY FEATHERS APA NEWS AND VIEWS: "Surface and Undercolor in Buff Brahmas," Summer 1989, p. 12; "The Buff Columbian dialog, several months later," Spring 1990, p. 9.

Since it was 100 years ago this May that Columbian Wyandottes were first exhibited, wouldn't it be a good idea for individuals and clubs to sponsor specials at this year's shows for "Best Columbian" and "Best Buff Columbian" in both bantams and standards? Wouldn't that be a highly appropriate manner for the exhibition poultry fraternity to honor those breeders who created the Columbian and Buff Columbian color patterns? Wouldn't that be an entirely fitting way, at the same time, for the poultry fanciers of America to commemorate the 500th anniversary of the discovery of America?

Dear Nona—

I'm wondering about the 1992 Master Exhibitor points, pins & Certificates. I had a lot of wine in 1992 and have heard nothing from the APA.

Also, as I calculate it, I now have 100+ Master Exhibitor points. Should I forward to you a photograph of myself for my Master Exhibitor page in the 1992 Yearbook?

4/8/93 - The chicks that were hatched in January are now of an age where they can be put out on the ground on these sunny & warm days of Spring. I had about 30 of the oldest ones out today and they acted very predictably: disoriented and terrified at first and then very much at home. There are always lots of fights and power plays that go on in such situations, but all finally settled down & enjoyed the sun and the dirt. I will give them the same treatment tomorrow (if the weather continues to be sunny and warm) for a few hours. In a week or so, they will be ready to spend the entire day and then become permanent residents of the adult poultry world - and that will make it much easier on their owner/manager. I have cancelled both of my Humanities classes tomorrow (Spring fever on the part of the students) and will focus on home and hearth again tomorrow for much of the day. Tomorrow night I will work at Wal-Mart. I must make some space arrangements in the poultry realm so that I will be prepared for the 20+ Black orpington chicks from Texan on Tuesday (hopefully). also four setting hens will hatch on the 11th (Sunday) and I will have to have a place to put them; also, there are chicks in the brooder box here in the bedroom that have to go down cellar and also chicks in the cellar that have to go up to the barn. Exactly where they will all go is not yet clear, but it will all sort itself out.

Dear Don,

Thank you for your grand letter
of March 22, 1993.

The Northeastern Pennsylvania
Griswold Reunion would consider it a great honor to be represented on the Board of Directors of the GFA. At our Reunion this August, we could elect a candidate and submit the name of that candidate to the GFA for consideration.

Your second proposal is very exciting. We would be delighted

1980 2.

to sponsor the GFA^{Fall} annual meeting - reunion in October 1996.

The Gisinwalds here with whom I have spoken about the possibility of having the 1996 GFA^{Fall} annual meeting in Clinton Township
all agree that the idea is wonderful. If the "possibility" becomes a reality, be assured that we will do everything in our power to make the three-day event interesting and memorable for all concerned.

Thank you for the invitation to the April 17th meeting in Plainfield, N.J. I am sorry to say that neither Donald nor I will be able to attend -- as much as we would like to.

3.

And write, I can't help but think about the founders of the N.E. PA. Grinnell Reunion. They would, I'm sure, weep for joy were they to read your very exciting letter.

When will the decision be made about the site of the 1996 GFA^{Fall} annual meeting - reunion?

I am very pleased to see on the agenda for the April 17, 1993 annual Spring Meeting, under new Business, the invitation to the N.E. PA Grinnell for a formal contact.

Our best wishes to you and to the GFA for a rewarding meeting on the 17th.

Cecil Moore is one of the legendary breeders of standard Black orpington. C. W. & Edna Carey, whom I met at the United Orpington Club meeting in Columbus last November, told me that if I wanted to get some first rate standard Black Orpington that I should contact Cecil Moore. C. W. Carey volunteered to mention my name to Cecil Moore. I wrote to Cecil Moore and said that I would like to get some Chicks. Mrs. Moore (Marie) phoned last night to say that she would send out "about 20" Black Orpington Chicks this morning. Let's hope that they have a quick & safe trip. They should be here tomorrow morning. In the winter 1990 all ORP, Ken Waller said the following (p.6): "I have already interviewed Cecil Moore and will do a feature column on Cecil's magnificent birds and pass on several of his tips on raising and showing them. By the way, did you know that in addition to his show winning Black and White orps, Cecil raises hard to beat Partridge Wyandotte bantams and is credited with creating the Delaware bantam? "What a coup that I just happened to sit beside CW + Edna Carey at the meeting in Columbus! Without them as go-betweens, it is doubtful that Cecil Moore would sell me some chicks. Apparently he is very fussy about to whom 1945 3.

he sells chicks. Let's hope that the 20 chicks have a speedy and warm trip!

It seems that I am finally getting myself set up with excellent breeding stock. My four primary breeding standards are:

Rose comb Rhode Island Red
Partridge Plymouth Rock
Black Breasted Red Modern Game
Black Orpington

I may have some exceptional standard White Wyandottes and Barred Rocks, also. I will know when the chicks that I now have from experimental matings grow up.

In bantams, my best birds
are the Black Breasted Red American Game.

This summer I will de-acquire 1946 4.

"more than a few" of the miscellaneous standards and bantams that I now have that are not my primary concern. My standard Golden Campenies are excellent, but I will sell them. They are, by nature, too wild for my taste. I like calm natured and non-hysterical birds (also people).

Spent the morning in the hen house — mostly making room for the four mother hens and their chicks that hatched in the last couple days. No more hen will come off the nest tomorrow. Put seven more standard Partridge Rock eggs in the incubator last night; seven are due to hatch on 4/18 and four more on 4/28. at long last, excellent standard

Partridge Rock. My two pullets^s
 (a combination of blood lines from Kreuzer's Kluckers and Halbach) and the Cockerel from Mark Klunkewitz from Waymart.
 Mark's Cockerel is from Jerry and Arlene Sliker and he is from a completely un-related (and excellent) strain. The Chicks should be wonderful.
 We are sharing the eggs from my two pullets & his cockerel.
 I gave him 11 eggs on 4/4 and will give him about that many on 4/18. I may return his cockerel to him at that time. I should be able to get about a dozen fertile eggs from my pullets after the cockerel goes home.

4/15/93 - 1030 P.M.

The Black orpington chicks arrived from Texas this morning at 6:30 A.M. There were three losses, leaving a total of 22 beautiful standard chicks. They were all battle weary from their trip and cold and it took them much of the day to arrive at a normal condition. They are all now soundly sleeping in a "chick rug" in the brooder box in the cellar. They will be joined this weekend by some chicks from the incubator — including, hopefully, the first standard Partridge Rock from the Klinkerwitz - Powell mating. The seven eggs that I put in the incubator and under the hen are all fertile & are due out on Sunday the 18th. There is a possibility of 20 more chicks on the 18th, including 2 more Banded Rocks and a White Wyandotte. I have more or less called the hatching season to a halt. I am now only collecting Partridge Rock and Black Modern Game eggs. The Partridge Rock eggs that I collect all this week will go to Mark & Brian on Sunday. I ¹⁹⁹⁹ 2.

Should have about a dozen for them.
I think I will return Mark's Cockerel on Sunday also. The pullets are laying beautifully and all of their eggs are fertile. After the rooster goes home, I will collect and incubate their eggs for a week
and that will be that for the 1993
breeding season (unless, of course,
the Malay hen gets her act together and starts to lay). The standard Barred Rock hen may be setting now.
She layed today but was in the nest box all day & tonight as well.
If she sets, she will be the recipient of about a dozen Partridge
Rock eggs, in a week or so.
I tried to reach Cecil & Marie
Moore to tell them that the Chicks arrived and that all is well but no one answered the phone about 20 minutes ago.

Dear Mr. Powell,

My wife and I live on 12 acres of beautiful wooded land in the southeastern corner of Alabama and I have been raising various breeds of bantams over the last 8 years that I have been a "country boy." I am writing to you now in reference to the American Game bantam. Mr. Bob Rugabar from Butler, Pennsylvania gave me your name and address and gave me hope that you might be able to lead me to some chicks or breeding stock to start from. I have been researching this bantam for several years, am familiar with the work done by the late Mr. Frank Gary from New Jersey, and have failed to find any American Game in the Southeast at all.

I was told by Mr. Rugabar that you wrote an article about the American Game in a recent issue of the Poultry Press. I would appreciate a copy of that article and any other literature available about the American Game bantam that you might have to help get me started. I understand that most of the living stock of this breed may need some work done to bring it up to the standard developed by early breeders, and I would like to undertake this project or help anyone else that is presently working on this.

Please call me collect at area code (205)-677-5648 after 4 p.m., Monday-Thursday or anytime on Fridays, or write me at the address below.

I would appreciate any consideration in the way of helping me with adult birds or chicks if you are raising them. I understand the postal service has a fairly good method of shipping birds now using the "Bird N.E.S.T." shipping crate through express mail.

Please call or write me at:

Dear Mark,

Thanks for your letter of 4/15/93
about American Game fantails.
I am very pleased to know that there are others who are interested in the breed.

Enclosed is a copy of my article on American Games that was published in the June 1992 Poultry Press; also enclosed is a copy of Frank Gary's 1982 article on the breed that was reprinted in the 1992 ABA Yearbook. It is, I think, very good that Frank Gary himself put in writing the history of the breed. There's nothing quite like the story direct from the horse's mouth, so to speak.
at the present time, I don't 1952 2.

have any adult birds or chicks for sale. I wish I did.

Last year I raised about 40 young and culled them down to six birds: one cockerel and 5 pullets. In addition to those 6 birds, I wintered over two old cocks and three old hens.

As frequently happens with bantams, my American Game were getting too big, and so this spring I mated the smallest and best stippled pullet to her father (an excellent bird in every respect) and I have about a dozen half grown chicks from the pair. The chicks look to be very promising. The chicks 1953 3.

were hatched and raised, in two separate broods, by the pullet
herself. at one point this spring,
my 8 American Game females
all had broods of chicks simultaneously: they are wonderful setters and I use them whenever possible to hatch and raise chicks
from extra special matings -
in several varieties and breeds.

This Fall, I should have a pair or trio of very good birds
if you are still interested. In the meantime, I see that there is an ad in the current Poultry Press (p. 13, May 1993)

from TONY BEZOK, who has
B. B. Red American Game ^{bantam} eggs for sale: $20 dozen, postpaid. His phone number is 203-426-9160

and his address is:

1954 4.

11 GELDING HILL ROAD
SANDY HOOK, CT 06482.

Tony is a well known and respected breeder of Old English and also Modern Game bantams. I show at some of the same shows that he does, but I have never seen his American Games. I am anxious to see his birds. My guess is that his birds are very good. I know that his other birds are very good. I look forward to competing with him in American Game bantams.

Sincerely,

S. Robert Powell

Personality measurements reach same conclusion

Two standard personality measurements — a character analysis using dictionary adjectives and a 462-item questionnaire — both arrive at the same conclusion: everybody is made up of five basic personality attributes, according to John A. Johnson, associate professor of psychology at Penn State's DuBois Campus.

"The relative mix of these five personality attributes determines who we are," Dr. Johnson said. "My recent finding is that dictionary-based classifications of personality and personality assessment questionnaires both reduce personality to these same five characteristics."

What are those characteristics? Extraversion, agreeableness, conscientiousness, emotional stability, and intellect or openness to experience.

"Anybody can be described with a combination of those five characteristics," he said.

4-18-93-11 A.M. Excellent standard Partridge Rocks now hatching: 4 out and about and three more on the way. The chicks should be very nice. They are the fusion of two separate strains: mine (Halbach & Kreuger) and Mark Klinkewicz's (Jerry & Arlene Sliker strain). I set 7 eggs on 3/28 & all were fertile & are now hatching. I then gave Mark "about a dozen"
eggs from the two pullets we are using, and he tells me (just now on the phone) that they "look good" (are probably fertile). I set 4 more on 4/7: they are all fertile; I put in 7 more on 4/13 - still too early to be sure on fertility, but they surely must be fertile. I will give Mark about 10 more eggs this

My two pullets will continue to lay fertile eggs for about 10 days and I will collect & incubate those eggs. With any luck, I will get about 20 standard Partridge Rocks from their mating — and they will be beautiful birds. Mark's cockerel is very beautiful — excellent size and type & color; my pullets are very good, but not as good as his cockerel.

11:15 A.M.

[I just now hear / have heard another Partridge Rock hatch in the incubator.] I couldn't have hoped for a more fortuitous event than Mark's Cockerel walking into my hen house, as it were. We will both
